Read all about it!

Before you start

Discuss the questions in pairs.

- Do you read newspapers (either digital or print version)? Why?
- What do you think is the role of newspapers in society today?

Reading

- 1 Read the descriptions of two different types of newspapers. Do you have these types of newspapers in your country? Think of some examples.

A tabloid newspaper has small pages and large photos. It has short stories which are easy to explain. It uses simple language and large headlines, which often include funny rhymes or jokes.

A broadsheet newspaper is a more formal newspaper with large pages. It has more international news. Articles are more factual and use longer sentences and paragraphs. They have fewer photos than tabloid newspapers.

- 2 Read the descriptions again and summarise the differences in the table.

Tabloid	Broadsheet
Small pages	Large pages

OBJECTIVES

Reading Compare different newspaper styles

Writing A persuasive essay

Listening Understand the key points in a lecture

Speaking Report an event

Language Review past simple, past continuous and present perfect tenses

Life skills Identify bias and exaggeration

- 3 Read the two newspaper articles quickly. Do you think they are from a tabloid newspaper or a broadsheet? How did you guess?

New Harry Potter book shown online

Photographs of all 784 pages of Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows have appeared on the internet, four days before J.K. Rowling's final book is due to be published.

It is not known who took photographs of the book, whose contents have been kept a secret before the book is published at 12.01 am on Saturday. Some websites have removed the photos after receiving warnings from the publisher's lawyers, but photos of the book can still be read on other sites. It is also claimed that some people were typing up copies of the book from the photos to share on social media.

This all occurred despite the careful security which has been put in place before the book is published. This included asking booksellers not to tell the media when or if they had copies of the book. The incident highlights the problems of online book piracy, which is becoming much more common.

B
Internet cheat ruins Potter surprise

Just four days before J.K. Rowling's final book about Harry Potter is published, an internet cheat has shared every page of the book online. This has ruined the surprise for millions of readers, who have been waiting with bated breath to find out what happens to the famous character.

Several websites show photographs of every page of Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows, which means that you can read the whole book online, including the long-awaited ending. Lawyers have demanded that the websites stop showing the illegal photos, and, fortunately, some websites have agreed. However, other people have typed up the text from the photos and are likely to share the story on other websites.

Fans of Harry Potter were shocked by the news. "It's terrible," says Kate Strong from Cambridge, who plans to buy the new book for her children. "The person who has done this should be put in prison."

4 Read the news articles again and find the following facts. Which article had more facts?

Fact	Article A	Article B
Name of book	Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows	Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows
When book was shared online
Number of pages in book
Day and time of publication
Information about security around new book
How the fans felt about the incident

5 In pairs, compare the two articles. Think about the following:

- Which writes about the feelings of fans?
- Which article has a bigger emotional effect on the reader? Why do you think that is?
- Which do you prefer? Why?

Vocabulary

6 Look at the bold words in the articles and find words to match the descriptions.

- someone who behaves in a dishonest way in order to get something
- to ask for something in a very strict and serious way
- when someone illegally copies and sells someone's work
- completely spoiled something
- an extreme adjective meaning very surprised and upset
- a phrase meaning waiting with a lot of nervousness and excitement
- say something is true, although it has not been proved
- to happen or exist in a particular place or situation

Speaking

7 Work in pairs. Read the two quotations below. Which do you agree with? Why?

Publishers make a lot of money from books like Harry Potter, and books are expensive. For that reason, I think that all books should be free or cheap to read online. This will encourage more people to read.

Book piracy costs publishers millions of dollars every year. Without this money, publishers cannot afford to pay the authors. For that reason, I think piracy is a crime which must be punished.

Research

8 Find a newspaper story which interests you. Use at least three different sources and compare differences and similarities. Re-write the article in broadsheet or tabloid style. Share with the class.

Before you start

What qualities do you think you need to be a journalist?

Listening

1.1 1 A student reporter is interviewing a journalist. Listen to the interview. Does the journalist mention any of the things you discussed above? What else does she mention?

1.2 2 Listen again. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false ones.

1 When you are interviewing someone, you ask as many questions as you can. F

2 If you're writing a news story, try to show your own opinion.

3 A successful journalist has to be nosy and interested in people.

4 Journalists should keep trying till they find a chance for a good interview.

3 Answer these questions.

1 Where did the journalist start?

2 How does the journalist suggest student reporters can get experience?

3 What did she do wrong when she first interviewed people?

4 What should you not include when you write news stories?

4 Work in pairs. Talk about the professional and ethical qualities that make a good journalist. Research different qualities to the ones mentioned in the interview in Exercise 1.

Writing

5 Write about 100 words to summarise the qualities a good journalist should have.

FOCUS ON

Past simple

Use the past simple to talk about:

- actions which started and finished in the past.

There was one grumpy person that I remember!

The actor didn't want to answer my questions!

- a sequence of actions or events in the past.

I started as a trainee on a local newspaper and then I started a three-year apprenticeship.

- repeated actions and habits in the past.

When I first wrote news stories, I often included my own feelings and opinions.

Past continuous

Use the past continuous to talk about:

- an action that was already in progress when another action took place.

I was interviewing a well-known actor when he told me to be quiet.

- two actions in progress in the past at the same time.

When I was first interviewing people, I was asking too many questions.

- an action that was in progress at a particular time in the past.

I was working as a volunteer at a shop when I was at university.

Present perfect

Use the present perfect to talk about:

- actions that started in the past but are still true or in progress.

I've written for many newspapers since that time.

I've worked with a lot of journalists. (I still work with them.)

- actions that have results in the present:

Sometimes I wonder why I'm tired, and I remember that I've worked for twelve hours without a break!

- experiences (often with ever and never).

Have you ever interviewed anyone famous?*

I've interviewed lots of celebrities

- actions which haven't happened (often with still or yet).

I haven't interviewed a famous scientist yet.

6 Complete the news report with the correct form of the verb in brackets.

Ever Given blocks Suez Canal

March 2021

Rescuers 1 have finally moved (finally move) a huge ship which 2 (block) traffic going through the Suez Canal. The ship, called the Ever Given, is 400 metres long and weighs 200,000 tonnes. It is one of the largest of this type of ship in the world.

The ship 3 (travel) through the Suez Canal on 23 March when there was a sand storm. The ship's captain said that a strong wind spun the ship so that both its front and back 4 (hit) the sides of the canal. The result was that no ships could travel past the ship for nearly a week.

Yesterday, more than 380 ships 5 (wait) to pass through the canal. Many ship companies wanted to know if there was another route. A few of the ships' captains 6 (decide) to go around the south of Africa instead, but this added about eight days to their journeys. At the same time, some countries announced that they would send products by air, but this is about three times more expensive as sending it by ship.

The accident 7 (be) terrible for businesses around the world. That is because around 12% of the world's business products pass through the canal each day so the accident 8 (cost) both Egypt and other countries millions of dollars.

Luckily, smaller Egyptian boats 9 (finally be able to) move the Ever Given yesterday. They did an amazing job. They moved around 30,000 square metres of sand under the ship before they 10 (take) the ship to the Great Bitter Lake, in the middle of the canal. The canal authorities told us that they won't know the true cause of the accident until they investigate.

Although the canal is open for ships again today, traffic through the canal won't return to normal for many days. Experts are investigating the possible casualties for all sides. They are also studying the accident carefully to see how Egypt can be compensated financially.

Speaking

7 Read the text again and answer true (T), false (F) or not mentioned (NM). Correct the sentences in your notebook.

- 1 It was not easy to move the Ever Given from the Suez Canal.
- 2 A strong wind probably caused the Ever Given accident to happen.
- 3 All the ships waited for the ship to be moved from the Suez Canal.
- 4 Egypt lost more money from the accident than other countries.
- 5 Small ships moved a lot of sand before they could move the Ever Given.

T

8 Work in groups of four.

Student A: You work for a newspaper. Ask Students B, C and D about their jobs, then ask each of them 2-3 questions about what happened at the Suez Canal.

Student B: You are the captain of the Ever Given. Answer the journalist's questions.

Student C: You are the captain of a ship that was waiting for the Ever Given to move. Answer the journalist's questions.

Student D: You work on one of the small rescue boats. Answer the journalist's questions.

Did you ask the expert what caused the accident?

Yes, she told me that they won't know the true cause until they investigate.

1 Lesson 3

Before you start

- Do you think it's important to keep up-to-date with current affairs? Why?
- Do you trust newspapers and online news? Why?

Listening

- 1.5 1 Look at the slides from a lecture given on a Media Course. You are going to hear part of a talk about media bias. Number the slides in the order the speaker talks about them.

A Bias by placement

- Position of the article on the page – the stories at the top of the page are the ones which the editor wants to show as most important

B Bias by omission

- Leaving out certain stories
- Leaving out facts or certain information which does not agree with the writer's point of view

C Bias by 'spin'

- Choosing examples or data which support one side
- Presenting an opinion as a fact.
- Using emotional language to persuade the reader

- 1.6 2 Listen again and write two examples each of omission, placement and spin from the lecture in your notebook.

Speaking

3 Read the social media post.

- 1 Who wrote it?
- 2 Who took the photo?
- 3 What's happened?
- 4 Are you more likely to believe this story or a story from a traditional media source? Why?

4 Discuss in pairs.

Spin is a type of media bias. Some journalists use words and phrases to support or oppose a service, product, or even an idea. Look at the underlined words and discuss with a partner how they give you a positive or negative attitude towards the story.

What do you think 'citizen journalism' means?

What are some of the positives and negatives of citizen journalism?

Writing

- 5 Imagine that you are this woman taking a photo with her phone. Write a few sentences about what you saw to include with the photo to post on social media.

FOCUS ON VOCABULARY

Check the meanings of these words in your dictionary.

balanced bias inaccurate mislead omission point of view spin

Before you start

Do you share news stories on social media? Why? Do you check to make sure they're true before you share them? Why?

Writing

1 Read the persuasive essay and answer the questions.

- Does the writer think social media is a good way to keep up-to-date with news?
- What does he say is our social responsibility?
- In the final paragraph, what action or solution does the writer suggest?

2 Replace the bold phrases in the essay with a synonym from the box.

whilst finally consequently to conclude secondly personally firstly due to

3 In a persuasive essay, each main paragraph usually starts with a 'topic sentence' to introduce the main idea of the paragraph. Underline the three topic sentences in the essay.

4 In pairs, brainstorm ideas to support your opinion of social media. Then, using the outline below, plan the essay.

It's best to include . . .

Introduction

- Introduce topic
- Present both opinions briefly
- State your position clearly

Main body – give three reasons to support your opinion

Paragraph 1

- Topic sentence
- Example / supporting statements

Paragraph 2

- Topic sentence
- Example / supporting statements

Paragraph 3

- Topic sentence
- Example / supporting statements

Conclusion

- Sum up, re-stating your opinion in different words
- Suggest a solution or action.

Social Media has a negative impact on news and society

Social media has become the main source of news. These days sixty-eight percent of people who have internet access get their news from social media. Although this means that we can find news easily and get regular updates on our phones, in my view I think that social media has a negative impact on news and society.

To begin with, this constant cycle of news, which is mostly bad, can make people stressed and worried. A recent survey found that more than half of Americans say they get anxious and sleep badly because of the news.

Next, not everything we read or see on social media is true or legal. If we share it, before checking the facts, we might spread false information. In turn, this means that the public will stop trusting journalists. In addition, piracy is very common on social media. It is very easy to copy books, films and music and to share them, but this means that the people who wrote the books or made the films and music do not get any money for their work.

Lastly, social media starts to control what news we see and don't see. Our social media 'friends' become the 'managing editors'. They share news stories they like and agree with, so the news we see is not balanced or objective.

In summary, whilst it is a good thing that we have so much news available and it is easy to keep up-to-date with current affairs, we need to avoid the negative effects. It's important to be careful about where we get our news and how often we check it. We also have a social responsibility to make every effort not to spread inaccurate or misleading news and not to copy artistic content without permission.

Great Expectations

Before you read

- Have you heard of Great Expectations?
- Look at the pictures. What do you think the story might be about?

Chapter 1 character list

Philip Pirrip (Pip) a young man; the main character

Mrs Joe Pip's older sister

Joe Gargery the husband of Pip's older sister; a blacksmith

Mr Pumblechook/Uncle Pumblechook Joe's uncle

A convict

Chapter 1

One cold, grey afternoon in the middle of winter, a small boy sat alone near the marshes. He was crying.

That small boy was me, Philip Pirrip. As my name was difficult to say when I was small, my name became Pip. I was crying because it was Christmas Eve, and I was an orphan – my parents were dead, and so were five of my brothers and sisters. This happened when I was very young, so I did not remember them.

I had lived with my sister and her husband, Joe Gargery, for most of my life. Joe was the village blacksmith, and Mrs Joe was twenty years older than me. She was tall and thin and liked to complain about me; she was often angry, but Joe was my friend.

On this grey afternoon, when I was about seven years old, I had walked down to the graveyard at the edge of the village. I sat by my parents' grave as the afternoon light slowly disappeared. The marshes nearby became dark and frightening.

I was going to leave and go home, when a terrible voice shouted 'Quiet!'

Then a man appeared from behind a grave. I nearly jumped out of my skin!

'What's your name, boy?' he shouted, walking slowly towards me.

'Pip, sir.'

'Show me where you live!' said the man.

I pointed to my village, not far away.

'Who do you live with?'

'My sister, sir – Mrs Joe Gargery – she's the wife of Joe Gargery, the blacksmith, sir.'

'A blacksmith!'

The man looked down and I saw his leg-irons. Then I noticed his old grey clothes, and his thin dirty face. He was shaking.

'Do you know what a blacksmith's file is?' he asked.

‘Yes, sir.’

He suddenly grabbed my shoulders and shook me.

‘I want you to bring me that file early tomorrow morning. And some food, too. Then I will let you live! What do you say?’

I was frightened, so I promised to bring the file and the food to him the next day.

‘Now go home!’ he shouted.

I ran until I could run no more. When I looked back, I saw the man far out on the marshes, a black shape against the angry red sky. Once I got my breath back I hurried home as fast as I could.

When I ran into the kitchen, feeling happy to be home safely, Mrs Joe angrily asked me where I had been.

‘Only to the graveyard,’ I cried.

‘Graveyard!’ she shouted. ‘You’re lucky not to have been put in the graveyard long ago! It’s because of me that you’re still here. But I didn’t want to look after you! It’s bad enough being a blacksmith’s wife. I never asked to be your mother!’

That evening, I had work to do in the kitchen as usual. It was almost bedtime and I was helping to prepare lunch for the next day, when I heard a loud noise.

‘Listen! What is that?’ I said.

‘A convict escaped last night,’ Joe explained. ‘That noise was a warning to everyone in our village that another convict has got away!’

‘From the prison ships,’ Mrs Joe added.

‘What are they?’ I asked.

‘They’re ships where they put people because they have committed a crime,’ replied my sister. ‘Now go to bed!’ she shouted.

I remembered that I had seen a broken old ship, far out on the marshes that day. Perhaps it was a prison ship.

As I fell asleep, I realised that the man I had met that day was one of the escaped convicts. He wanted a blacksmith’s file so that he could take off his leg-irons and get away from the marshes quickly. He scared me, but I also felt sorry for him.

Early the next morning, I got up and went into the kitchen. It was Christmas Day, and guests were invited to dinner. There was some delicious cheese in the kitchen, as well as nuts, apples and oranges, and a cold meat pie. I took them all. Then I went into Joe’s workroom and found a blacksmith’s file.

Closing the front door quietly behind me and holding all the food carefully, I set off. I ran to the graveyard and then out into the mist and over the wet marshes.

Suddenly, quite by surprise, I saw a man in grey who seemed to be asleep. He wore leg-irons and stood up when he saw me. At first, I thought he was the man that I knew, but then I realised that his face was different. He looked at me for a moment before disappearing into the mist. I wondered who he could be and what he was doing out here.

Soon afterwards, I found the man I was looking for. I gave him the food at once, and he ate it quickly as I told him about the other man that I had just seen. He wanted to know who he was and where he had gone, but I could not tell him. Then, as soon as he had eaten, he took the file from me and started trying to remove his leg-irons with an angry look on his face.

I was afraid again, so I ran home as fast as I could. As I ran back across the marshes, I could hear the sound of the file on the leg-irons through the mist.

Mrs Joe was busy preparing the house for guests, so Joe and I were alone together. I began to feel guilty about the food and the file which I had stolen that morning, and I wanted to tell Joe what I had done. But then I thought he might not want to be my friend if I did, so I said nothing.

It was not long before the guests arrived and we sat down to Christmas dinner.

At first, nobody noticed that anything was missing. But then, to my horror, Mrs Joe invited everyone to try the delicious meat pie that Joe's uncle, Mr Pumblechook, had given us. The guests happily agreed and she went to find it. Joe told me I could have some, and I felt very bad. At any moment, Mrs Joe was going to discover that the meat pie had disappeared from the kitchen.

Unable to stay at the table with all the guests any longer, I got up from my chair and ran to the front door. But when I opened it, a group of soldiers entered, just as Mrs Joe came back into the room shouting, 'The pie has gone!'

The appearance of a group of soldiers made the guests forget about the pie and they all stood up from the table. Everyone wondered why the soldiers had come, and we all felt nervous.

'We need a blacksmith to mend some handcuffs, please,' the first soldier said. 'We're looking for two convicts who broke their handcuffs and escaped. We think they are hiding out on the marshes, although they probably won't try to get away until tonight.'

When he asked if we had seen them, everybody else said no. I did not speak.

Joe mended the handcuffs for the soldiers, and they waited with us as he worked. When they were finished, Joe and I followed the soldiers out of the village and onto the marshes.

'I hope we don't find the convicts, Joe,' I said quietly.

'Me too, Pip,' Joe replied.

Day became night as we walked over the marshes. It was raining and the wind blew the rain into our faces.

Suddenly, we heard angry shouts nearby. I was afraid of what was about to happen.

Idioms

Writers often use idioms to make their descriptions more interesting.

What do you think these idioms from Chapter 1 mean? Choose the best answer.

- 1 I nearly jumped out of my skin.
 - a Something suddenly frightened me.
 - b I felt something rub against my skin.
- 2 Once I got my breath back, I hurried home as fast I could.
 - a I found my way
 - b I started to breath normally again

Writing

4 Refer to Chapter 1. Write answers to the questions in your notebook. Give examples from the text.

- 1 What is your impression of the man that Pip meets in the graveyard? Clarify your answer.
- 2 How does Dickens use the natural environment to reflect the characters' feelings? Use examples to explain.

Speaking

5 Discuss the question in pairs.

On hearing angry shouts, Pip says, "I was afraid of what was about to happen."

What do you think the angry shouts mentioned at the end of the story were? What do you think is going to happen next?

Firsts for Egyptian women

This week, we are celebrating two remarkable Egyptian women who broke down stereotypes and prejudices, demonstrating that women's place in society is important and continues to grow.

Hilana Sedarous

Born: 1904–1998

Education:

London Medical School

Hilana Sedarous was the first Egyptian woman to become a doctor in modern Egypt and scholars believe that she was the first Arab woman to be a doctor, too. She was born in Tanta and was sent to London in 1922 to study mathematics with five other Egyptian students. However, while she was there, she decided to study medicine instead. She was considered one of the first medical students to study in England. In 1930, after going through many obstacles, she qualified as a doctor and returned to Egypt where she opened a private clinic for women. She was treating patients until she was 70 years old. After retiring, she started writing and translating stories for children.

Yasmeen Yehya Moustafa

Born: 1998

Awards: 1st place in the Intel Science and Engineering competition, NASA named a minor planet after her family (Moustafa 31910) recognising her contribution to science.

Education: Maadi STEM School for Girls, Middle East Technical University

Yasmeen is a role model for other young Egyptians. Born in Damietta, she defied stereotypes, by moving to Cairo alone to attend the Maadi STEM school. The CEO of Intel Egypt said that Yasmeen has received a “unique” honour, adding that her success in the field of scientific research is considered an achievement for all of the Egyptian society; and for Intel which encourages youth to be creative.

Yasmeen's winning invention was sparked by the need for cleaner water in her village. She found that burning rice straw gave clean water and also produced a natural fuel which can be used to generate electricity. She says her school gave her the confidence to innovate and to defy prejudice: 'I believe I can change the world', she proudly states.

Speaking

4 Discuss in pairs and take notes. Compare your ideas with another pair.

- 1 What difficulties do you think each of these women must have had?
- 2 What impact do you think these women have had on Egyptian society?
- 3 Who do you think is the most inspiring? Why?

I think it must have been very difficult for Hilana Sedarous to travel abroad at that time. She must have been unique.

- Who are the most successful sportswomen in your country?
- Why is it important to have women role models in sport?

Vocabulary

1 Complete the sentences with the words in the box.

determination karate pharmacist rank round ~~overcome~~

- 1 Successful athletes are usually able to overcome their problems.
- 2 The first of a sporting competition is when the opening game or match is played.
- 3 is a Japanese sport in which you must defeat a person using hits, kicks or throws.
- 4 A is a person who knows which medicines you should take to make you better.
- 5 People often Hong Kong as the most expensive city to live in the world.
- 6 Hard work and were the key to Mayar Sherif's success.

Reading

2 Read the text and answer true (T), false (F) or not mentioned (NM). Correct the false sentences in your notebook.

- 1 Ferial Abdelaziz had worked for many years as a pharmacist before she started karate.
- 2 Ferial Abdelaziz had won gold medals before the Olympics in Tokyo.
- 3 Giana Farouk has won medals in four different countries.
- 4 Mayar Sherif ranked 74th in the world in September 2021.
- 5 Many Egyptian women have won Grand Slams.
- 6 Mayar Sherif sometimes takes advice from other successful athletes.

3 Read the text again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why has Ferial Abdelaziz made history?
- 2 What other successes did female athletes have in 2021?

2021: A great year for Egyptian women athletes!

2021 was an amazing year for Egyptian female athletes. At the Tokyo Olympic Games, Ferial Abdelaziz became the first female Egyptian to win the karate gold medal. Ferial studied to become a pharmacist, and had played karate since she was seven. Before she won the Olympic gold medal, she had already won a bronze medal at the World Championships in Spain and a silver medal at the 2019 Africa Games in Morocco.

However, Ferial was not the only Egyptian to win a medal at the Tokyo Olympics. Giana Farouk won a bronze medal at the same event. Giana had also won a gold medal at the Africa Games in Congo in 2015 and three gold medals at the World Championships (two in Germany in 2014 and one in Austria in 2016).

Also in 2021, Egyptian tennis player Mayar Sherif represented Egypt in the Olympics and became the first Egyptian woman to be ranked in the top 100 players of the Women's Tennis Association (WTA), reaching number 74 in September. This was after she reached the WTA finals in Romania. She was the first Egyptian woman to achieve the only singles title on the WTA challenger tour. Earlier in the year, she beat Chloé Paquet from France in the first round of the 2021 Australian Open. Up until then, no Egyptian woman had won a match in a Grand Slam tournament.

These great women athletes and many others faced many obstacles and challenges. However, they were able to overcome them and proudly put Egypt on the world map of sports. The secret formula for their success was hard work, determination and a lot of patience.

Language

- 1.8 4 Fill in the gaps in the interview with Mayar Sherif, using the past simple, past perfect simple or past perfect continuous of the verbs in brackets. Listen and check.

Interviewer: How long 1 (you / play) tennis when you played your first professional match?

Mayar: Let's think ... I 2 (start) when I was 5 so I 3 (play) for 15 years.

I: 4 (you / ever / compete) on clay courts before you played at the French Open?

M: No, it was the first time I 5 (play) on a clay court in a professional match.

I: Did you think you were going to win the match against Chloe?

M: No, to be honest, before the match I 6 (not / hit) the ball very well. The courts were fast and it was difficult. But little by little I 7 (play) better and by the time I played against her I 8 (feel) confident.

FOCUS ON

Use the past perfect simple when you are already talking in the past and want to refer back to an earlier time.

Use the past perfect continuous instead of the past simple to talk about a continuous activity / something that had been happening over a period of time, before another action in the past.

Writing

- 5 Write four questions to ask Mayar Sherif. In pairs, imagine one of you is the interviewer and the other is Mayar Sherif. Ask and answer your questions. Try to use a variety of past tenses.

A: How long had you been playing tennis when people realised you were going to be good at it?

B: I was 15 when I started to win a lot of tournaments.

Speaking

- 6 Discuss the following questions in groups. Share your ideas with the rest of the class.

- 1 Do boys and girls do an equal amount of sport?
- 2 Do people assume that girls are less interested in sport than boys?
- 3 How do stereotypes influence what sports we choose to do?

Some people think girls are not as strong as boys, and so they can't do sports which require strength, such as powerlifting.

Before you start

Comment on the following statements, then discuss your comments in pairs. Do you think they are true?

- In most countries there are more girls at university than boys.
- Boys get better grades than girls in STEM subjects at school.
- More boys choose to study STEM subjects at university than girls.

Listening

1.9 1 Listen to the podcast about the Maadi STEM school in Cairo. Answer the questions.

- 1 What is special about this school?
It is a school for girls studying STEM subjects.
- 2 What reasons does the speaker give for fewer girls studying STEM subjects?
- 3 What does Hoda like about her school?
.....
- 4 What have Hoda and her classmates achieved?
- 5 What is Hoda's goal?

1.10 2 Complete the sentences. Then listen again to check.

Girls often get 1 better grades than boys in STEM subjects.
They are 2 confident about their abilities.
The 3 and 4 students in the world presented their ideas at an international STEM fair.
What they study there is 5 more interesting 6 in her old school.

Reading

4 Read the summary quickly. Would you like to read this book? Why?

Book of the week

What Katy Did, written by the American Susan Coolidge in 1835, is still an inspiration to many of today's female authors. The story follows the adventures of 12-year-old Katy and her younger brothers and sisters. Katy had no mother and her father was a busy doctor, so the children were looked after by their kind aunt.

Katy wanted to be like a mother to her brothers and sisters, but was often impatient, naughty and liked to have dangerous adventures. One day, she decided to use a new swing, although her aunt had told her not to use it because it was broken. Katy fell from the swing and badly hurt her back. She could not walk and had to stay in bed. This made her very unhappy and cross, until she was visited by her cousin Helen. Helen was disabled and she taught Katy to be patient. She also showed her how to behave in a more caring way to her younger brothers and sisters. After her aunt became ill and died, Katy became the head of the family. At the end of the book, she had become a wiser, better person, and she learnt to walk again.

5 Read it again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why do you think Katy wanted to be like a mother to her brothers and sisters?

Share of female doctors in selected countries as of 2015

Source: OECD Health Statistics 2016

Female doctors by country

The bar graph shows the percentage of female doctors in certain given countries around the world. It can be seen that there is a very significant difference across countries, from a majority of women doctors in some countries to a small minority in others.

The country with the highest number of women doctors is 1 Latvia, which has nearly three-quarters of female doctors, while the country with the smallest number is 2, where less than a quarter of doctors are women.

Netherlands and 3 have very similar numbers of women doctors; around half the doctors in those countries are women. However, another European country 4 has around 10% fewer women doctors.

In conclusion, the most surprising thing about the figures is the big differences across different countries, which do not seem to be related to region, or size or economic development of the country. In other words, there does not seem to be any obvious pattern to the results. It is especially interesting to note the very low number of women doctors in Japan. That may reflect the stereotype that Japanese women are usually expected to look after the home, rather than work in medical or other fields.

Chapter 2

The soldiers ran into the marshes and we saw two men. They were fighting and covered in mud. The soldiers pulled them away from each other.

In the light of the soldiers' torches, I saw the man that I had helped. I wanted to say, 'I didn't tell the soldiers where to find you,' but all I could do was shake my head. He gave me a long, strange look which I will never forget.

'I have something to say,' he said. 'It was me. I stole the food from the blacksmith's house this morning.' He looked at Joe and added, 'I'm sorry that I ate your meat pie.'

'You're welcome. We don't want you to be hungry,' Joe replied kindly.

The man turned away. Then he was taken to a boat nearby which took him to the black prison ship, far out on the marshes. We watched as he climbed back onto the ship in the distance and disappeared.

At that moment, the torches went out.

A year passed. I worked every day, helping neighbours with small jobs, but in the evening I went to the village school. The old lady who taught me often fell asleep, leaving her grand-daughter, Biddy, to show me how to read and write.

One night, Joe saw me sitting by the fire, as I was practising my writing.

'You know, Pip, you are very clever!' he said.

'Did you never go to school, Joe?' I asked.

'No, Pip,' he replied. 'My father didn't let me go, but he had a good heart. He taught me to be a blacksmith. And after he died, I met your sister. She's a fine woman.'

I looked into the fire.

'I'm glad you think so, Joe,' I said at last.

'I wish she wouldn't hit you, though,' Joe said. 'I would rather she hit me than you! We'll always be best friends, won't we, Pip?'

Just then Mrs Joe came in.

'If this boy isn't grateful to me now, he will never be!' she said.

I tried to look grateful, but I didn't understand what Mrs Joe meant.

'Miss Havisham wants Pip to go to her house,' she said. 'And he must go, or I will make him work hard here!'

Everyone in the village had heard of Miss Havisham; she was a very rich lady who lived in the nearest town. However, most people

‘So how does she know Pip?’ Joe asked.

‘She doesn’t know Pip. Uncle Pumblechook visited her, and she asked him if he knew a boy who would go there to play with a child who lives there,’ Mrs Joe replied. ‘The boy will make his fortune by going to Miss Havisham’s house, and he’s going there tomorrow!’

Then she jumped on me, like an eagle on a lamb. I was washed very well that night. Uncle Pumblechook took me to Miss Havisham’s house in my best clothes, the next day.

We waited at the gate until a very pretty, but proud, young girl appeared.

‘This is Pip,’ said Mr Pumblechook.

‘Come in, Pip,’ she said, opening the gate.

Uncle Pumblechook was not invited in so I left him at the gate. I followed the girl through an untidy garden.

The house looked unused and most of the doors were closed. Everything was dark inside, and we went upstairs with a candle.

The girl left me at a door, telling me to enter.

Inside was a dressing room lit by candles; the curtains were closed, so no daylight could enter. And then I saw her: the strangest lady I had ever seen, or would ever see.

She was dressed completely in white, with a long white veil and flowers in her hair. But her hair was white, the flowers were dead, and the white dress was now yellow with age. I saw a bride in a wedding dress, but everything about her was old and sad.

‘Let me look at you,’ she said.

As I stood before her, I noticed that the clock had stopped at twenty to nine.

‘Do you know what I have here?’ the lady continued, her hands on her heart.

‘Yes, madam.’ I replied. ‘It’s your heart.’

‘A broken heart’ she said. Then after a moment, she added, ‘I am tired, and I am bored. Play!’

I wondered what game I could play, so I replied that I could not play alone

‘Call Estella!’ the old lady said.

When Estella entered, I saw that she was the girl who had let me in. Now she was told to play with me.

‘But he is just a poor working boy!’ she complained.

Miss Havisham said something to her. I could not hear clearly, but I thought she said, ‘Well? You can break his heart.’

And so Estella and I played games while Miss Havisham watched silently.

‘What dirty hands you have!’ Estella said, unkindly. ‘And what ugly boots!’

Lesson 5

I was ashamed. Finally, Miss Havisham called me to her side.

‘What do you think of her?’ she asked, looking at Estella.

‘I think she is very proud. And very pretty. And very rude,’ I said. ‘I would like to go now, please.’

Miss Havisham made me promise to come back in six days. Then Estella led me back through the dark house and out into the garden.

Before I left, Estella gave me some food and drink, but did not hand it to me. Instead, she put it on the ground. Tears came to my eyes. When she saw that I was crying, she smiled.

I returned home, hurt and ashamed of my simple life. In the kitchen, Mrs Joe and Uncle Pumblechook were waiting for me. They wanted to know what had happened, but I didn’t want to tell them the truth. Later, when I was alone with Joe, I told him everything. I said that the beautiful girl at Miss Havisham’s house had said I was common, and that I felt ashamed.

Joe told me to be happy with my position in life, but I could not forget what had happened. I knew that this was the beginning of something that would change the rest of my life. I decided to learn as much as I could at the village school. If I had a better education, perhaps Estella would be kinder.

Two days later, I asked Biddy if she would help me more with my lessons, and she happily agreed. The village school was very busy and noisy, but when I left it that evening I hoped that with hard work, I would one day leave my simple life behind and become a fine gentleman.

On my way home, I met Joe at the village inn. He was sitting with a man I had not met before. He looked at me strangely.

‘It’s bad weather tonight,’ Joe said. ‘The mist is so thick, you wouldn’t know there was a prison ship out there on the marshes!’

‘Oh, is there?’ asked the man. ‘I don’t know this area. It seems very lonely out on those marshes.’

‘Marshes are always lonely,’ replied Joe.

‘Perhaps you’re right,’ said the man.

The man then asked if any escaped convicts had been found recently, and I began to feel uncomfortable.

Then the man stirred his cup of tea, and I saw that he was using a blacksmith’s file. It was the same file that I had taken from Joe’s workshop a year ago! But Joe did not notice.

'Surround sound' is a system that uses 3 or more speakers to make you feel like you are 'surrounded' by sound. Surround sound experiments go as far back as the 1930s. In fact, the technology was first introduced in 1940 in the Walt Disney Film Fantasia, which used Fantasound. This was a system designed to totally immerse the audience in the film like the visuals did. Unfortunately, it was too expensive to implement on a big scale, as Fantasound needed 54 speakers. It wasn't until 1975, with the invention of Dolby Stereo, requiring just four basic speakers that 'surround sound' became practical. It was used spectacularly in the film Star Wars. True surround sound in the home, however, didn't arrive until 1982, with the introduction of Dolby Surround technology. But this still required four speakers, making it expensive and inconvenient.

Now, a whole new approach has been developed, by scientists at the Chemnitz University of Technology in Germany, which uses paper instead of speakers.

The team had experimented before; in 2015, they created an illustrated book which had speakers hidden inside the pages that made noises as readers turned them over. Now they have developed a printing process which can print whole rolls of the paper-thin speakers, rather than one sheet at a time. They have used this to make the T-ring, a 360-degree paper speaker, a sound experience more immersive than even a cinema, and can be potentially mass-produced at a competitive price. Professor Hubler, from the University predicts that one major use of this new idea will be for audio advertising and packaging. Imagine the packaging on bottles and tins playing music or adverts for you in your local supermarket!

2 Read the article quickly and match it with the best title.

- a Innovation in cinema
- b The future of sound
- c New research methods

3 Read the text again and answer true (T), false (F) or not mentioned (NM). Correct the false sentences in your notebook.

- 1 Walt Disney used a new system for producing sound in his film Fantasia.
- 2 The film was very successful because of the amazing sound quality.
- 3 Shortly after this film, lots of film directors started to use this system.
- 4 Surround sound had been used in the home long before the cinema.
- 5 Scientists have found a more practical way to produce surround sound.
- 6 The problem with the book experiment was that you couldn't find the speakers.
- 7 It will be cheaper than old systems of 'surround sound'.
- 8 It is already being used in supermarkets to advertise products.

Speaking

4 Discuss the questions in pairs.

How useful do you think this new technology is?
What applications do you think the new paper-thin speakers might have?

I think this technology could be used in museums to provide audio information about the objects or paintings on display.

Lesson 2

Before you start

- Have you seen the film The Martian or any other science fiction films about space?
- Do you think space technology is important? Why?
- Do you think we will find life on other planets? Why?

Reading

2 Read Tarek's question in the blog below. What do you think is the answer? Discuss with a classmate. Then read the astronomer's answer and see if you were correct.

www.teenastronomers...

Teen Astronomers is a website for young people who are interested in finding out about the world they live in. If you have any burning questions, please email us at teenastronomers@theconversation.edu.au.

Why has nobody found any life outside of Earth? – Tarek, age 17, Zagazig, Egypt.

Thank you for your question, Tarek. Astronomers like us are constantly searching for planets which may support human life, but they're not easy to find. To start with, it's likely that if such a planet exists, it will be outside our solar system. Until we have invented the technology to get us to these planets,

1 we won't be able to study the conditions there.

But we'll keep using the technology we have to find out what we can, 2 _____.

One of the most important things is to find a planet with water, because it is essential for all life forms. Scientists recently discovered that there is permanent liquid water on Mars, which made a lot of people excited. After all, it is the closest planet to Earth. However, on average, the temperature on Mars is about minus 60 degrees Celsius. In winter it can go down as low as 125 degrees below freezing. When 3 _____, they'll be able to spend enough time on the surface of Mars to collect useful data.

Mars is hopefully just one step into the universe. Once we've conquered Mars, 4 _____, with future advances in space technology.

3 Read the blog from the website again. Complete the gaps in the text with the following phrases.

- A we won't be able to study the conditions there
- B we've found a way for astronauts to survive these extreme temperatures
- C until we have found some evidence.
- D it will be easier to expand into the universe beyond

Language

4 Study the bold words on the website and in the phrases in Exercise 3. Answer the questions.

- 1 What tense is used for the verb which follows these phrases?
- 2 What tense is used in the other clause?

5 Choose the correct option to complete the sentences.

- 1 When I'll do / I've done the experiments, I'll collect all the results.
- 2 Once you 've finished / 'll finish your homework, will you tidy your room please?
- 3 Normal people won't travel in space until it has become / will become less expensive.
- 4 People won't have bought / won't buy electric cars until they have discovered a way for them to go longer distances without being charged.
- 5 When I've fixed my computer, I'll help / will have helped you with your research.

Speaking

6 Complete these sentences so that they are true for you, then tell your partner.

FOCUS ON

Present perfect for future

In clauses with after, once and when, we normally use the present simple to talk about the future:

When we have enough information, we'll tell you.

I'll keep working hard until I pass the exam.

We can also use the present perfect tense.

I won't be able to write the report until I've done the research.

Once I've done the research, I'll start the report.*

Research

7 How will space exploration help us? Write a question to ask the scientists on the website. In groups, discuss your questions. Does anyone know the answer to your question? Do some research to try and find out the answers to the other questions. Then share your information with the rest of the class.

3 Lesson 3

Before you start

- In what ways can technology help us stay healthy?
- Do you know any apps which help monitor your health or fitness? If yes, which apps do this?
- Read the Did you know? fact. How do you think AI could be used to improve health care?

Did you know?

Artificial Intelligence (AI) is the development of machines to perform tasks which normally require human intelligence, such as understanding language, recognising pictures, solving problems and learning.

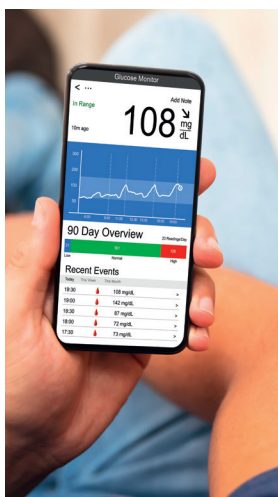

VOCABULARY

Check the meanings of these words in a dictionary.

Listening

- 1.16 1 You are going to hear a podcast about new advances in the field of medicine. First, look at the photos. In pairs, discuss what you can see. What do you think they are going to talk about in the podcast?

- 1.17 2 Listen and choose the best options in these sentences.

- 1 Some operations are already being performed by computers/robots controlled by humans.
- 2 Operations can be done more accurately/quickly when robots handle the surgical tools.
- 3 In the distant/near future companies think simple operations will be done by robots.
- 4 It will/won't be possible to carry out operations from a different country.
- 5 AI will replace/create opportunities for doctors and nurses.
- 6 In the future, doctors and nurses will do tasks which involve computer/human skills.

FOCUS ON Talking about the future

Use the future simple (will or won't + infinitive) to talk about predictions in the future and future facts, e.g. Robots will help doctors and nurses.

Use the future continuous (will or won't + be + -ing form) to talk about an activity at a specific time in the future: Later we'll be talking about health apps.

Use the future perfect (will / won't + have + past participle) for actions that will or won't be completed before a specific time in the future: He won't have finished the operation by 5 pm.

- 4 In pairs, discuss the most important ideas in the podcast. Then write a summary of it. Read your summary to the rest of the class.

Before you start

Technology is very important for us here in Mexico City. We depend on smartphones, tablets, computers and especially the internet. I am lucky to have a computer in my house, because my father doesn't live with us, so it helps me keep in touch with him. On a bigger scale, technology has helped save lives in Mexico. We have very advanced warning systems which give people more time to escape to safety if an earthquake is coming. On the other hand, cyber security has become a big issue. Computer hackers can cause serious harm to individuals and organisations. Important information can be stolen. There have been many cases where this has happened in Mexico, and I'm sure there will be more in the future. 👍 5

Technology surrounds us. It's everywhere. It's hard to imagine a life without technology. But, of course, we could live without it. Only forty years ago people survived without smart phones or the Internet. On the whole, I think technology can be dangerous because people can become addicted to it. They forget about simple things like walking in nature and being with friends. 👍 0

I don't agree with the last comment. The benefits of technology in medicine are obvious. People's lives are saved every day because of new technology in hospitals! In the future, it'll be even more important. It will help us discover new cures for lots of diseases. Of course, technology has some negative effects, but on balance, we can't live without it now. 👍 1

Chapter 3 character list

Joe Gargery the husband of Pip's older sister; a blacksmith

Mrs Joe Pip's older sister

Miss Havisham a rich, elderly lady

Estella a young lady who lives with Miss Havisham

Sarah, Georgiana, Camilla and Raymond Pocket Miss Havisham's relatives

Mr Pumblechook/Uncle Pumblechook Joe's uncle

Biddy teacher and friend to Pip

Orlick a man who works for Joe at the blacksmith's

When I realised that the man in the inn had met the convict I helped on the marshes, I wanted to take Joe away. Before we could go, however, the man took out a new coin. He wrapped it in some paper and gave it to me.

'This is yours,' he said, 'but be careful!'

Feeling frightened, I took the coin and left with Joe. When we got home, we realised that the paper wrapped around the coin was a pound note. Joe went back to the inn immediately to try to find the man and return his note to him.

However, the man had left. Mrs Joe put the pound note on a shelf where it would be safe and there it remained.

On my next visit to Miss Havisham's house, Estella took me into a gloomy room where three ladies and a gentleman were waiting. They were Miss Havisham's relatives, Sarah, Georgiana, Camilla and Raymond Pocket, and they had also come to see her that day.

A bell rang far away. Miss Havisham was ready to see me. Holding up her candle, Estella led me through the dark house.

'Well, boy!' she asked. 'Am I pretty?'

Before you read

- At the end of Chapter 2, Pip learnt that someone knew he had helped the convict on the marshes. How do you think Pip feels?

'Yes, you are very pretty.'

'Why don't you cry?' she asked, looking unkindly at me.

'I'll never cry again,' I said.

Just then, we met a large, dark-haired man on the stairs.

'Ah, you are a neighbour, I think?' he asked.

'Yes, sir,' I replied.

'Why are you here, boy?'

'Miss Havisham asked for me,' I explained.

'Well, behave yourself! This is not a place for children to play,' he said, before walking away.

I thought that he might be a doctor, and I continued walking up the stairs. I soon found myself in Miss Havisham's room again.

Everything was the same as before.

'So! Are you ready to play?' she asked.

'I don't think I am, madam,' I replied.

'Well, do you want to work then?'

I said that I did, and she told me to wait for her in the dining room opposite.

When I entered the dark room, I could see a long table laid with a table-cloth and plates, prepared for a wedding celebration, but now it was dusty and covered with spiders' webs. The room looked like it had been exactly the same for many years. There were spiders and mice everywhere. I was looking around the room and watching the spiders when Miss Havisham came quietly into the room behind me.

'What do you think that is?' asked Miss Havisham, pointing at a tall shape in the centre of the table.

I went closer.

She asked me to walk with her around the room, which we did for some minutes, until Estella and the Pockets came in. They asked about Miss Havisham’s health and wished her a happy birthday, but she sent them away.

‘That wedding cake was brought here, a long time before you were born,’ Miss Havisham told me. ‘And everything is still here.’

She stood for a long time, looking at the table.

Then we returned to her dressing room and Miss Havisham told Estella and me to play. So we sat down to play games in her dressing room but this time Estella refused to speak to me. Finally, Miss Havisham asked me to return in a few days and allowed me to leave. Estella led me out of the house, again put my food and drink on the ground and shut the door.

Alone in the garden, I was surprised to see another boy looking at me out of a window. He disappeared into the house, and then came out into the garden to speak to me. He had very pale skin and short fair hair, so in my mind, I called him ‘the pale young gentleman’.

‘Hello, who let you in?’ he asked.

‘Estella,’ I replied.

‘Come and fight, then!’ he said, preparing to hit me.

The boy was my age, but much taller than me. I ran at him hard and he fell over. He jumped up, prepared to fight again, so I ran at him again. This time he got a black eye. He did not seem to be strong and never hit me hard.

The fight continued for several minutes until the boy was on his knees, saying, ‘You have won!’

Lesson 5

He was so brave that I felt sorry for him.

‘Can I help?’ I asked.

‘No, thank you. Goodbye,’ he answered.

I knew that it was time to leave.

I did not see the pale young gentleman at Miss Havisham’s again, although my visits continued.

Nothing ever changed. Miss Havisham sat in her wedding dress, in her dusty dressing room; Estella and I played games as she watched; and Miss Havisham asked if I thought Estella was pretty. I always said yes, and Miss Havisham seemed happy with this answer.

Mrs Joe and Uncle Pumblechook had been talking about the same thing ever since I had started to visit Miss Havisham. They were sure that she wanted to give me all her money, and they wanted my visits to continue.

‘What will you be when you grow up, Pip?’ she asked one day.

‘I am going to become Joe’s apprentice and learn to be a blacksmith,’ I said.

‘Then tell Joe to come here at once,’ she replied.

When Joe came with me on my next visit, Miss Havisham gave him a large bag of money.

‘Pip will become your apprentice now,’ she said. ‘He is a good boy and this is his reward. The money is to pay for his apprenticeship. But that’s your lot! This is all you will get from me, Mr Gargery!’

‘Shall I visit you again, Miss Havisham?’ I asked.

‘No,’ she replied, ‘Joe is your boss now. Estella, show them out!’

And so my apprenticeship with Joe began.

But I had changed. I no longer wanted to be a blacksmith; now, I was ashamed of my home and my family.

Estella was often in my thoughts, although I did not see her any more. I was sure that she did not like my position in life, so I continued my education and worked hard. This was largely thanks to Bidley, who gave me lessons and taught me as much as she knew. Although she was older than me, Bidley was my friend.

About a year after my apprenticeship with Joe had begun, I asked Joe for an afternoon’s holiday, so that I could visit Miss Havisham and thank her for helping me. When Orlick, Joe’s workman, heard that I was going, he was very angry. He did not think it was right that I should have an afternoon’s holiday, while he could not have one too. I did not like Orlick; he was large and slow, and he often tried to make my life difficult at work. An argument began between Orlick and Mrs Joe, who wanted me to see Miss Havisham again. In the end, Joe had to stop them. But there was something strange about Orlick, but I could not put my finger on what it was.

Before you start

Discuss in pairs.

- Why do you think Mrs Joe and Uncle Pumblechook want Pip to visit Miss Havisham?
- How is Pip trying to improve himself?

- 1 Is the theatre a good way of getting messages across to young people? Why?
- 2 You have been asked to put on a play at your school to focus attention on the achievements of women. In pairs, think of an idea for the play which you think will work best for the target audience of young people. Plan the play and prepare a presentation to explain your idea to your class.

- 5 Present your idea to the rest of the class. Discuss the presentations.

- How well did the group present the idea?
- Which idea was the most creative?
- Which play would be most effective in promoting women's achievements?

DIGITHEATRE REVIEW

Scientists from history come to life in a new online show involving wooden puppets, music and theatre called Jina and the Stem Sisters. It's a musical with great songs and a wonderful message. The show tells the story of some of the most 1 women in science and mathematics.

In the story, Jina is on a journey and gets lost in a forest. There she meets women who have made important 2 to the history of STEM. The women include Hedy Lamarr, who was both an actress and inventor. Whilst at the top of her film career, she invented a technology called signal-hopping, which later was the basis for all modern wireless communication, including that found in mobile phones. Other women that Jina meets are Marie Curie, who was a 3 and chemist famous for her research and experiments on radioactivity, and Mae Jemison, an American engineer and 4 Marie Curie was the first woman to win the Nobel Prize 5 in two different fields. Mae Jemison was the first black woman to travel into space.

The scientists share their knowledge with Jina and help her to develop key skills to become a future STEM expert herself. On her journey, Jina also meets computer scientist Ada Lovelace and 6 who show Jina the stars.

The show has been created for schools. It will hopefully encourage young people to find out more about these inspiring women in science and how they overcame the difficulties and 7 in their way.

"The puppets were beautiful and completely 8 me in the characters", Mona, aged 12. "I definitely recommend it."

Before you start

How to avoid burnout

Burnout is a mental health problem that is affecting more and more people today because there's so much pressure on us to work hard and do everything perfectly. When you experience burnout, you feel exhausted and you usually don't spend enough time doing things you enjoy. You might stop doing hobbies that you used to enjoy and you may become ill more often than usual. As a result, people experiencing burnout feel like they can't live their lives normally anymore.

Burnout is usually caused by both decisions you make about things that you can control, for example, the amount of homework you have to do, and situations you can't control, for example if you spend a lot more time on your homework than you have to because you want to do it perfectly. This is your choice or the result of poor time management skills.

If you're in danger of suffering from burnout, you will usually experience a lot of stress, find it difficult to sleep and have a lot of headaches or pain in your shoulders and back.

In order to improve your mental health, you need to take responsibility for the things that you can control. For example, if you find it difficult to say 'no' when people ask you to do activities outside of school and you feel exhausted because of this, you could change this behaviour. Then you can start thinking about activities you really enjoy doing. These should be activities that help you to forget about everything else that is happening, such as drawing or painting, doing a sport or having 'real' conversations with your friends and family. Activities like these are examples of self-care. They help to promote better mental health and increase your well-being.

3 Read the article again. Make notes on the answers to these questions. Then discuss and compare your ideas in pairs.

- 1 What causes burnout?
- 2 What problems does burnout cause?
- 3 How can you decide if a particular activity can help you to avoid burnout?
- 4 Write one sentence summarising what the last paragraph is trying to say.

Speaking

5 Work in groups. Make notes or draw a mind map for your answers to the questions.

- 1 What could have a negative effect on your mental health? What can you do to stop this happening?
- 2 Is there anything in your life that you could change to improve your well-being?
- 3 What activities help you to improve your well-being when you do them?

We have to do a lot of exams. But if you start studying early and don't feel afraid of exams, you can stop being too stressed.

Work in pairs. Look at the photo and discuss the questions.

- 1 What is the woman thinking about and feeling?
- 2 Does her reaction surprise you? Why?

VOCABULARY

FOCUS ON

Check the meanings of these words in a dictionary.

alter clear off frown
pout scold suppose

Reading

- 1 Work in pairs. Read the poem. What is the message of the poem? What is the connection between the poem's message and the photo?

Suppose

by Phoebe Cary

1 Suppose you're dressed for walking,
And the rain comes pouring down,
Will it clear off any sooner
Because you scold and frown?

2 And wouldn't it be nicer
For you to smile than pout,
And so make sunshine in the house
When there is none without?

3 And suppose the world don't please you,
Nor the way some people do,
Do you think the whole creation
Will be altered just for you?

4 And isn't it, my boy or girl,
The wisest, bravest plan,
Whatever comes, or doesn't come,
To do the best you can?

- 2 Match the sections of the poem (1-4) with what the poet is saying (a-d).

- a There are some things that you can't change.
- b Feeling unhappy about something won't stop it happening.
- c Whatever happens to you in life, just try your best.
- d If you try to be happy, you'll feel good.

Speaking

- 3 Work in pairs. Think of a time when you followed or didn't follow the advice in the poem. Tell your partner what happened and how you felt.

I remember once when I left my school bag on the bus. When I got to school, I felt really frustrated and angry with myself. I should have just smiled and concentrated on getting the bag back.

Language

4 Read the sentences and choose the correct verb form.

- 1 You should try/trying to learn better time management skills.
- 2 You could have say/said 'no' to playing on the school basketball team.
- 3 Why don't you take/taking some snacks with you, so you aren't so hungry?
- 4 Have you considered talk/talking to your family about your feelings?
- 5 How about listen/listening to some music to help you to relax?
- 6 You shouldn't have watched/watch television for so long. Your eyes are so red!

FOCUS ON Making suggestions

Use the following structures to make suggestions about what to do in the future:

How about + the -ing form?

What about + the -ing form?

Have you considered/thought about + the -ing form?

How about saying no more often?

What about doing sport four times a week instead of six?

Have you considered going to bed a bit earlier?

Why don't you + infinitive without to?
You could/should + infinitive without to.

Why don't you start studying for that exam in February?

You could do your homework with other students.

You should plan your revision.

Note:

Use should/ought to have/should have + past participle to talk about past regrets/blame:

You ought to/should have taken more breaks.

Lesson 3

Before you start

Work in pairs. What can people do to improve their mental health? Discuss your ideas.

Listening

1.27 1 Listen to two voice memos from students Nevine and Hany who have done something to improve their mental health. Make notes on the changes the speakers made in their lives and then answer the questions.

- 1 Did the speakers follow any of the advice that you discussed?
- 2 What changes did each speaker make in their lives?
- 3 What change(s) did both speakers make?

1.28 2 Listen again. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)?

- 1 Nevine started to solve her problems by identifying the reason for them.
- 2 Nevine says that she was trying to play four different sports perfectly.
- 3 Nevine still doesn't relax at the weekend, but she does things she enjoys.
- 4 Nevine has now found a new hobby that she enjoys.
- 5 Hany didn't expect to have any problems with his mental health.
- 6 Hany's mental health problems started because of stress at school.
- 7 Hany found it difficult to sleep because of his mental health problems.
- 8 Hany's parents helped him to make a study plan.

Reading

3 Read the advice from a teacher who helps teenagers who are suffering from burnout. Put the things that she does in the correct order (1-5).

- Identify more efficient ways of doing things.
- Find out how they feel.
- Find out what they like doing and make better use of it.
- Find out about what they have to do.
- 1 Talk about the mental health problems they're having.

When I talk to teenagers who are suffering from burnout, I start by talking to them about the negative effects of their mental health problems. It's a good idea to ask how they're feeling, for example, they may feel exhausted or they may not have any time for self-care. Then I ask them about their routine because I want to find out how much time they spend doing their homework and how much time they spend on other activities. After that, we can find out if there's anything we can change, for example to have better time management. A final important thing to look at is what activities the student really enjoys. We can talk about these and think about how the student can make more time for them.

Speaking

4 Work in groups. You have a friend who's suffering from burnout. You want to help your friend, but you need more information. Read and answer the questions.

To: Mohamed@mail.com

From: Karim@mail.com

Hi Mohamed,

I wanted to write because I've noticed that you don't seem to be your normal self at the moment. You used to have so much energy, but now you look exhausted a lot of the time at school. I think I can understand how you're feeling because I was suffering from a lot of stress last year too. I couldn't cope with all of the homework I had. Instead of doing the work, I used to just sit at my desk and worry about it for hours. I remember that I was exhausted all the time and my teachers weren't very happy with my schoolwork. Time management was something I didn't know anything about back then, but I asked my sister for help and she showed me how to plan my study time better.

Is there something that you're worrying about which is stopping you getting to sleep? Or maybe you're doing too many things at the moment. Everyone suffers from stress and finds it difficult to cope with life sometimes, so don't worry about it. When you understand that, you can start to identify the reasons for your problems.

Why don't you think about what is happening in your life at the moment? Is there anything that you're spending too much time on? How often do you make the time to do something you really enjoy? We could get together to have a talk about what's going on if you want. Just let me know when.

Talk soon,
Karim

Chapter 4

When I visited Miss Havisham the next day, I was sorry that Estella was not there. Miss Sarah Pocket opened the door for me.

'What do you want?' Miss Havisham said angrily. 'I hope you don't want anything from me, because you will get nothing!'

'I don't want anything. I have come to say thank you – for my apprenticeship,' I explained.

'Well,' Miss Havisham replied, 'from now on, come to see me once a year, on your birthday!'

I promised that I would.

'You are looking for Estella, aren't you?' Miss Havisham continued. 'She has gone away for her education and she will become a lady. Do you feel that you have lost her, Pip?'

She laughed, and I did not know what to say. Then she asked me to leave, so I set off for home.

On the way, I met Mr Wopsle, one of the guests from that Christmas dinner a few years ago, and we walked together. It was getting darker now. In the mist, a man came slowly towards us, and we realised it was Orlick. He told us that some more convicts had escaped from the prison ship, and he seemed to act strangely as he walked with us along the road back.

On my return to the house, I was surprised to find a crowd of people in the kitchen. While Joe had been out that evening, someone had broken into our house and they had hit Mrs Joe on the head, injuring her badly. Nothing had been taken, but a convict's leg-irons lay on the floor.

I immediately remembered the convict who I had helped two years before in the graveyard. However, I felt sure that the person who committed the crime was not him. I suspected Orlick because he had been so angry with my sister. However, I had no proof.

Mrs Joe was unable to speak or walk again after the attack, but she could draw, and one day, she drew a hammer. Biddy and I knew at once that the hammer meant the blacksmith's hammer, which meant Orlick! When Mrs Joe was able to sit in the kitchen again, we could see that she was scared of him.

Mrs Joe could not hurt me now and because Joe needed help in the house, Biddy came to cook and clean for us. At last, my life was improving.

Some years passed, and I continued my apprenticeship at the blacksmith's. My visits to Miss Havisham's house continued once a year. It seemed as though time, like her old clocks, had stopped there. I did not see Estella again during that time, although I often thought of her. And when it was time to leave, Miss Havisham always gave me a coin and told me to come back on my next birthday.

Biddy soon became an important member in our household. She looked after everything well, and also cared for my sister. Mrs Joe could no longer walk or speak, and now I felt sorry for her. As the weeks became months, and the months became years, I also saw how kind and good Biddy was.

One day, I said to her. 'Biddy, I want to become a fine gentleman.'

'But don't you think you are happier as you are, Pip?' she asked, surprised.

'No, Biddy,' I explained. 'I will never be happy unless I can lead a different life to the one I live now.'

She looked down and was quiet.

'I don't want to be just a blacksmith,' I continued. 'Ever since I met Estella at Miss Havisham's, I have wanted to improve myself. She is so beautiful and clever, and I admire her very much!'

After a moment, Biddy asked quietly, 'Do you want to become a gentleman to upset her, or to marry her? If you want to upset her, then you shouldn't care what she thinks; if you want to marry her, she probably isn't worth the effort.'

'That may be true,' I replied, 'but I still admire Estella so much!'

I knew that I was making a mistake, but I could not change my feelings.

Biddy told me then that she was glad I could talk to her, and said she would never tell anyone else.

'I will always tell you everything, Biddy!' I said.

'Until you're a fine gentleman,' she replied, in a strange, sad voice.

It seemed impossible that my wish to become a gentleman would come true. But one evening, while Joe and I were at the village inn, listening to Mr Wopsle reading aloud from a newspaper, I noticed that a stranger was looking at us. Then I remembered him. He was the gentleman I had met on the stairs at Miss Havisham's house, years before.

'Is your apprentice, Pip, here?' the dark man asked us, looking at Joe. 'I need to speak privately to you both.'

He sounded like an important man, so we invited him to come back to the workshop with us. Once there, he said he was Mr Jagers, a lawyer from London.

‘I am working for someone but I cannot tell you their name,’ he explained. ‘I have to tell you that Pip has great expectations. He will receive a large amount of property in future, so now he must have an education. The only condition is that he does not ask who his benefactor is.’

I immediately agreed. Joe was so surprised that he did not object at all when Mr Jagers asked him if he could end my apprenticeship immediately.

‘I have a large sum of money for you,’ Mr Jagers continued, turning to me, ‘and your education will begin soon in London, with Mr Matthew Pocket. He will be your teacher and he will make a gentleman of you! But first, take these twenty pounds to buy some new clothes.’

When Joe was asked if he needed any money for losing me at the blacksmith’s, he replied, ‘Pip is welcome to go and find his fortune. Money makes no difference to my feelings for him. We will always be best friends.’

Joe was so good and kind, and really cared about me. When he and Biddy realised that I was to leave them in just a week, they both congratulated me, but they did not say much more than that. I knew that they were sad that I was leaving. My sister did not understand what was happening, although Biddy tried to explain everything to her.

I decided that when I had bought my new clothes, I would put them on at Uncle Pumblechook’s house.

‘I don’t want all the poor people in this village to see me in my fine clothes,’ I explained to Joe and Biddy.

They were both silent. Uncle Pumblechook, however, was delighted.

‘I will never forget you, Joe,’ I said, as I left the blacksmith’s a week later. However, in truth, I had begun to feel more and more ashamed of Joe’s poor education. When I said goodbye to Biddy, I asked if she could teach Joe to speak better, but to my surprise she refused. Suddenly, I felt lonelier than ever before.

Carla: Hi, can you help us?

IT Support: Yes, sure. Can you tell me what the problem is?

Carla: Sure. We wanted to have a virtual meeting with a group of students in Egypt for a project. We installed the software for the meeting and that was fine. Everyone joined the meeting. We turned our microphones on and switched our cameras on. We could hear and see everyone without any problems for the first five minutes.

IT Support: OK and what happened then?

Carla: Then, I shared my screen and everything stopped working.

IT Support: So the other students couldn't hear or see you and you couldn't see or hear them either?

Carla: That's right. We were talking to them, but they stopped responding. It was clear that they couldn't hear us. We turned our sound up, but it seems that they still couldn't hear anything we said or see us. We can only see the document I wanted to show them now.

IT Support: Did you mute your microphone?

Carla: No, I didn't touch my microphone. It was still on.

IT Support: Did you check your internet connection?

Carla: Yes, I did. The internet connection is fine.

IT Support: That's strange. Are you definitely still in the meeting? Could it be that you left the meeting and you didn't realise it?

Carla: I'll check. Oh, you're right. I closed the meeting by accident! Sorry.

IT Support: Don't worry. It happens 😊 Maybe you can look into other ways of staying in touch with the students during your meetings if there are technical problems, like email or instant messaging.

Carla: Yeah, good idea. Thanks for your help. I'll go and email the students.

Phrasal verbs

Phrasal verbs consist of a verb combined with one or two prepositions. When these words are used together, they create a new verb with a different meaning.

In some phrasal verbs, the noun comes in between the verb and the preposition:

Turn your sound up.

In some phrasal verbs, the noun comes after the phrasal verb:

We can look into other ways of staying in touch.

Some phrasal verbs can either be separated or not separated by a noun:
Please turn your camera off/turn off your camera.

Language

4 Complete the phrasal verbs in the sentences with the correct prepositions.

down ~~into~~ on off up x2

- 1 We're going to look into other ways of sharing documents online.
- 2 You don't have to turn your camera if you don't want to. Leave it
- 3 At least I have this weekend to catch with the school work I missed!
- 4 I asked her to turn her sound, but then it was much too loud.
- 5 We told her the sound was too loud so she turned it

Speaking

5 Discuss the questions in pairs.

- 1 Do you think that having virtual meetings will help Carla and the students to do their project work more efficiently? Say why.
- 2 Can you think of another solution to Carla's problem? If yes, what would that be?

5 Lesson 2

Before you start

Work in pairs. Discuss the question. Which of these recent changes in the world of work do you think will become even more important in the future? Why?

- Companies doing more to help their employees with personal problems.
- More employees working from home or in other spaces, such as coffee shops.
- Employees have more control over their working hours and work fewer hours.
- Employees send a lot fewer emails or none at all and instead use virtual meetings or apps to communicate and share information.

Listening

1.32 1 Listen to part of a podcast about the future of work. Tick (✓) the speaker's predictions about the future of work.

- 1 The number of people who work from home will increase.
- 2 Employees will decide what their working hours will be.
- 3 Companies will stop telling their employees what to do.
- 4 Employees will be able to make more decisions at work.
- 5 Employees will stop using email in ten or twenty years' time.
- 6 People will only send emails when they need to solve problems.

1.33 2 Listen again. Make notes on the information or examples that the interviewee uses to support each of his four predictions.

-ing forms or the infinitive

When two verbs are used together, the second verb could either be in the -ing form or to + infinitive.

Some verbs are always followed by to + the infinitive, for example encourage, need, seem and want:

What's the most important future trend we need to know about?

That seems to be logical.

Some verbs are always followed by the -ing form, for example enjoy, finish and recommend:

They enjoy making more decisions on their own.

Some verbs can be followed by the -ing form or to + infinitive and the meaning stays the same, for example continue, like, hate and start:

Employees will continue doing/to do this.

Some verbs can be followed by either the -ing form or to + infinitive but the meaning changes according to the verb form which is used, for example stop and remember:

Companies will stop seeing work as something everyone does in the same place and at the same time. (They will no longer do this.)

I stopped to buy water on my way home.

(I stopped, bought the water and then continued.)

Language

4 Answer the questions to give your opinion about the future of work. Use the verb patterns in bold in your answers.

1 What new things will employees start doing at work?

2 How many employees will decide to work from home if they have the choice?

.....

3 What things that we do now will we continue doing at work in the future?

5 Work in pairs. Match these sentences with their meanings.

1 I'll remember to talk to my colleagues about having more virtual meetings.

2 I remember talking to my colleagues about having more virtual meetings.

a This is something I will not forget to do in the future.

b This is something I have a memory of doing in the past.

6 Work in pairs. What is the difference in meaning between these two sentences?

1 We stopped the virtual meeting to check that everyone's microphones were turned on.

2 We stopped checking that everyone's microphones were turned on because they always were.

Speaking

7 Work in pairs. Think about how students might study differently at school in the future. Use the phrases below to make predictions.

1 I think students will start ...

2 In my opinion, we'll stop ...

3 I believe we'll continue ...

4 The way I see it, students will still want ...

Lesson 3

Before you start

- What problems do you or your classmates have when you're studying?
- What helps you to study more effectively?

Reading

1 Read the three study tips. Match the headings to the correct tips.

- a Draw mind maps
- b Create a study system with colours
- c Make a study plan before you start studying

TIP 1:

Start by thinking what you need to learn. For example, if you need to study for a Maths exam, make a list of all the topics you need to know. Then, decide how much time you'll need to learn about each one. Finally, decide which topics are the most important and plan to spend more time on these.

TIP 2:

This is a creative way of bringing information about a topic together in one place. You start by writing the topic in the centre of the page and then draw lines from the centre. At the end of each line, you write a different part of the topic and make short notes about it. You could even use pictures instead of text in your mind map too.

TIP 3:

For example, if you write the most important points about a topic on cards, you could use the same colour cards for similar topics. This will help you to find information more quickly. You could also get some different coloured pens and highlight different types of words (verbs, nouns, adjectives, etc.) in different colours.

SKILLS FOR LIFE

Everyone has problems while they're trying to study sometimes. Don't get stressed or give up. Try to think of creative solutions. Try doing something in a different way, in a different place or in a different order, or using technology.

2 Read the study tips again. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)?

The writer says ...

- 1 You should identify specific things you need to learn about.
- 2 It isn't important to decide which topics you need to concentrate on.
- 3 Mind maps help you to put information about different topics in one place.
- 4 You can draw pictures instead of writing words on a mind map if you want to.
- 5 You can use cards to summarise important information.
- 6 You should make all the words on a card the same colour.

Speaking

3 Work in groups. Brainstorm other ideas for study tips.

4 Work in groups. Prepare a presentation showing how you plan to use two of the study tips from Exercise 3 next week. Use the following questions to help you make your study plan, then present your ideas to the class.

- 1 When can you start using the tips?
- 2 What is the first thing you need to do to start using the tips?
- 3 What changes will you have to make to the way you study?

Before you start

Work in pairs. Put in order the things you can do when you don't think you've understood something. 1 = the most effective, 5 = the least effective.

- 1 Let the other person know that you didn't understand.
- 2 Get angry.
- 3 Say what you have understood.
- 4 Ask a lot of questions about the topic.
- 5 Ask the person to explain more simply.

Hi Monica, 🗑️ 📄 ✉️

Thank you for your email about virtual meetings. I understand how to join the meeting by clicking on the link in an email and turning my microphone and camera on and off, but I'm not sure about how to give a presentation during a meeting. It sounds like you have to share your screen if you want to show other people a document or PowerPoint slides, is that right? So I need to join the meeting, share my screen and then stop sharing when I've finished showing the thing I wanted to show. Have I understood that correctly? If I haven't, feel free to let me know how I should be doing it. Maybe we could have a quick call so you can talk me through it.

Thanks very much in advance for your help. I'm sure I'll be able to give presentations in our meetings without any problems very soon.

Talk to you soon,
Iman

2 Work in pairs. Read the email again. Match the questions to the correct answers.

- 1 How does Iman start the email? d
- 2 Which phrase tells you that Iman understood some of Monica's explanation?
- 3 Iman uses the phrase 'It sounds like ...' to introduce an explanation of what?
- 4 After she's given this explanation, Iman asks a question in order to do what?
- 5 What does Iman suggest that they could do if she hasn't understood correctly?
- 6 What two things does Iman say at the end of the email?

- a She says thank you and she'll be able to solve the problem soon.
- b 'I understand how to ...'
- c Check her understanding.
- d She said that she has received Monica's email.
- e Talk to each other.
- f What she understood from Monica's explanation.

Writing

3 You receive this email from a friend who's trying to help you to study more effectively. Plan a reply to this email.

Make notes on:

- How to start the email
- One thing you definitely understood
- How to ask if you've understood correctly
- How to end the email

Hi there, 🗑️ 📄 ✉️

You asked for some study tips and I have two good ones for you:

Try using the Pomodoro technique. You concentrate on your work for 25 minutes, then take a break, then do another session for the same amount of time, then take another break. After a few of these, you take a longer break.

Try teaching another student something you find difficult to understand. Prepare something before you meet up with them. Then explain it to your friend as well as you can.

Let me know how the studying goes.

Talk to you soon!

Lesson 5

Before you read

- At the end of Chapter 4, Pip learnt that he would be rich. How does he feel about this? Why?

Chapter 5 character list

Miss Havisham a rich, elderly lady

Mr Jaggers a lawyer

Matthew Pocket Miss Havisham's cousin; father of Herbert Pocket; Pip's teacher in London

Mr Wemmick Mr Jaggers' clerk

Herbert Pocket a relative of Miss Havisham; who Pip will live with in London

Estella Miss Havisham's adopted daughter

Miss Havisham's half-brother

Miss Havisham's fiancé

Startop a man who is staying with Herbert Pocket and Pip

Bentley Drummle a man who is staying with Herbert Pocket and Pip

Chapter 5

I visited Miss Havisham, wearing my new clothes.

'I have been given a fortune since I last saw you, Miss Havisham,' I said. 'And I am so grateful!'

'I know,' she replied, 'and you have a good life ahead of, you. But remember to follow Mr Jaggers' advice!'

She looked pleased as I said goodbye, and I felt sure that she was my secret benefactor. After all, Mr Jaggers had told me that I was to be educated in London by Mr Matthew Pocket, one of Miss Havisham's relatives.

When I was sitting on the coach to London the next day, after a quick goodbye to Joe, my sister and Biddy, I felt as though the whole world was waiting for me.

It was five long hours before I arrived at Mr Jaggers' office in London. His clerk, Mr Wemmick, explained that because Mr Jaggers was still at work, I should wait for him in his office. It was an unpleasant place, and I was sad that I had left the blacksmith's.

When Mr Jaggers returned, he said that I should go to my lodgings at Barnard's Inn, where I would share rooms with Mr Matthew Pocket's son. He wanted to take me to his father's house in a few days' time, so that I could meet my new teacher.

'Here is some money, Pip,' Mr Jaggers continued. 'It is a lot of money! But don't worry; I will know how much you spend, in case there are any difficulties.'

This was good news! I felt happier now, and I agreed to go to my lodgings with Mr Wemmick. He told me that Mr Matthew Pocket lived in Hammersmith, five miles away.

When we came to Barnard's Inn, I was disappointed. It looked dusty and gloomy. Mr Wemmick left me at the door, but no one answered it.

I thought that no one would come and let me in, but after about half an hour, I heard footsteps. A tall, thin young man appeared.

'Mr Pip?' he asked. 'I am sorry! I went to buy some fruit at the market and I thought you would arrive later than this.'

He invited me in. It was only when he turned to speak to me, in the light of the window, that I saw who he was – the pale young gentleman!

Herbert Pocket was the pale young man. He was not handsome, but his face was cheerful, and I liked him at once. However, I had a strange feeling that he would never become rich.

We immediately began talking. I discovered that Miss Havisham had once thought she might adopt Herbert, so she had invited him to visit her. That was on the day that I had met Herbert, and fought with him in the garden. After that visit, however, Herbert was not invited to Miss Havisham's again.

'She didn't think I was suitable,' Herbert told me. 'But if she had adopted me, I would probably be rich now. And if that had happened, then I might even be Estella's fiancé, too!'

'You must be disappointed!' I said.

'No, not at all,' he replied. 'I think I have had a lucky escape! Estella is proud and cruel. Miss Havisham adopted her, you know. She wants to use her – to take revenge on men!'

I was very surprised. Estella was adopted! Why did Miss Havisham want to use her in such a strange way?

When we sat down to eat, Herbert continued to tell me about Miss Havisham. First, however, he told me how to behave at the dinner table, for which I was grateful.

I soon discovered from Herbert that Mr Jaggers was Miss Havisham's lawyer. Mr Jaggers had suggested that Herbert's father, Mr Matthew Pocket, should be my teacher in London. I was convinced now that Miss Havisham was my secret benefactor!

Herbert told me more about Miss Havisham. He explained that when she was a young woman, she and her half-brother had inherited a fortune from their father.

It was not long, however, before her half-brother spent his share of the money and became jealous of her. He wanted to have her money, and he started to think about how he could get it from her. He didn't care if he had to hurt her to get it.

Soon afterwards, Miss Havisham got engaged. During this time, she gave most of her fortune to her fiancé. This was against the advice of her cousin, Matthew Pocket, who warned her not to trust her future husband too much. Miss Havisham became very angry with Matthew Pocket and ordered him to leave her house. He has never been there since.

‘Is your father still angry with Miss Havisham for ordering him to leave?’ I asked Herbert.

‘No, he’s not angry at all,’ replied Herbert. ‘But when Miss Havisham sent him away that day, she said that he wanted to get her money himself. If he visited her now, it would look as if he still wanted her money.’

On the morning of the wedding, when everything was ready and the guests were expected, there was some bad news. Miss Havisham’s fiancé had left her! She received the news at twenty to nine in the morning, while she was getting dressed. Ever since that time, more than twenty-five years ago, neither Miss Havisham, nor her house, had changed at all. Even the clocks in the house had been stopped.

‘But why didn’t Miss Havisham’s fiancé marry her?’ I asked. ‘He would have had all her property then.’

‘Perhaps he was already married,’ Herbert said.

It seemed that the fiancé had, in fact, planned everything with Miss Havisham’s half-brother, hoping to take as much money from her as they could. Nobody knew if the two men were still alive, or not.

The following day, I was taken to meet the Pocket family at their home in Hammersmith in West London. They lived by the river in an old house. When we arrived, we found Herbert’s younger brothers and sisters playing noisily in the garden. Despite the place being very ordinary, it was a happy house, and I immediately felt comfortable there.

Mr Matthew Pocket and his wife were as cheerful as their son, and made me welcome. After they showed me my room, they introduced me to two other young men who were also staying there. We soon got to know each other very well. Startop was good-natured, but Bentley Drummle was proud and grumpy.

I was learning how to live like a young gentleman and improving my education because I would be very rich one day. Mr Jagers gave me more money whenever I asked, which was quite often. I noticed, however, that he never laughed, and everyone seemed scared of him.

One day, while waiting in Mr Jagers’ office, I had a conversation with Mr Wemmick about Mr Jagers’ work. I noticed that Mr Wemmick was proudly wearing a ring. He told me that it was a present from people he had worked with.

I was invited to Mr Wemmick’s house. He lived with his father some distance from the centre of London, in a strange building that looked like a small wooden castle.

Mr Wemmick told me that all of London’s criminals were afraid of Mr Jagers, so they left him alone. I learnt that Mr Jagers did not even lock his house at night, and often said, ‘I want to see the man who’ll dare to rob me!’

Reading

1 Quickly read the report by a researcher about the effects of changes to the way students study. Does the researcher mention any of the changes you discussed?

2 Read the report again. Answer the questions.

1 Why did the researcher decide to do this study?

They wanted to find out which situations make students more productive.

2 What is the central idea of the report?

3 What data did the researcher use to draw his conclusions?

4 When and how often did the researcher ask the students to change the way they study?

5 What way of studying helped some students to be more productive, but made it more difficult for other students?

A report on a recent study into productivity amongst students

In our research study, we assessed the productivity levels of sixteen to eighteen-year-old students. The aim was to find out which situations led to an increase in the students' productivity levels while they are studying. We chose a group of 250 students and asked them to keep a diary over a six-month period. In these diaries they wrote down how much time they spent studying every day and what they achieved.

At the start of the study, we asked all the students to make a change to their study habits. We wanted to find out what effect this change would have on the students' productivity. We repeated this process at the start of every month for the rest of the study to look at the effects of varying study habits.

Our analysis of the students' diaries resulted in some interesting conclusions. We noticed that most students' productivity levels increased significantly when they got up earlier to study before school. This was even true for students who had said they weren't very efficient when they studied early in the morning. On the other hand, most students' productivity levels declined significantly when they regularly studied until late into the evening. Another interesting finding was that studying with other students had a very positive effect on some students' productivity levels, but a very negative effect on other students' productivity levels.

In conclusion, we can state that studying in the morning seems to help most students to become more productive, but the effects of other factors, like whether or not students study alone, vary, depending on the individual.

3 Read these sentences from the report. Underline the phrases which show cause and effect. Then write C (cause) or E (effect).

- 1 The aim was to find which situations led to an increase in the students' productivity levels. C
- 2 We wanted to find out what effect this change would have on the students' productivity.
- 3 We then repeated this process at the start of every month for the rest of the study to look at the effects of varying study habits.
- 4 Our analysis of the students' diaries resulted in some interesting conclusions.

FOCUS ON

Causative verbs

We use the verb make to say that someone or a situation forced someone else to do something. For example:

My parents make me tidy my room.

We use the verbs let and allow to say that someone has permission to do something.

The teacher sometimes lets us watch a film.

The teacher sometimes allows us to watch a film.

Note: We use to + infinitive with allow.

We use the verb stop to say that someone or a situation makes it impossible to continue doing something:

The cold weather stops us from going outside.

Writing

3 Plan a text about your experiences of using two study tips from Lesson 3. Include the following:

- What you did
- How you feel about the experiences from your position now
- The positive effects of using each study tips (if any)
- The negative effects of using each study tips (if any)
- How helpful you found using the study tips overall

Trying to raise my productivity levels: Week 1
I tried dividing my study time into twenty-five minute periods and taking breaks between them. I can understand the logic of doing this and I'm sure it helps some people to concentrate better because they only have to concentrate for short periods. However, the big drawback for me was that I kept looking at the time to see when it was time to have a break. Looking back, I suppose I should have set an alarm instead so I didn't have to do that and then it might have been more helpful for me.

I decided to always do the task that I found the most difficult first and, of course, this was quite hard to do at first because it isn't what you naturally want to do. However, I kept going with it and after a few days, I noticed how it was helping me to manage my time better and meant that I made a better job of the unpleasant tasks than I did before. This definitely had a positive impact on my productivity.

I liked the idea of making a study plan because I thought it would help me to get better organised. It definitely helped me to feel less stressed about what I needed to do because I wrote down exactly what I had to do in a list and that made it seem easier to get everything done. I was surprised by what a big difference the study plan made. I'm definitely going to carry on making study plans.

SKILLS FOR LIFE

When you make a change to the way you study or in any other area of your life, you need to evaluate it. Has this change had any positive effects? Has this change had any negative effects? Which effects have had a greater impact? Evaluate the effects to make decisions about whether to continue with the change or to try something else.

- Why do you think the criminals are afraid of Mr Jaggers?

Chapter 6

A few days afterwards, I was invited to dinner at Mr Jaggers' house with Herbert Pocket, Startop and Bentley Drummle.

Mr Jaggers lived in a large, gloomy building, not far from his office. We all sat down at a big table. There was plenty for everyone to eat and drink, but Mr Jaggers kept everything at his side, and served us himself.

When he saw Drummle, he immediately asked me who he was.

'That is Bentley Drummle,' I replied.

'So, Bentley Drummle is his name, is it?' he said. Mr Jaggers thought about this information for a moment before saying, 'I like the look of him!'

Mr Jaggers spent a lot of time looking at Drummle. He talked to Drummle for a long time, and I heard Drummle boasting that

Chapter 6 character list

Mr Jaggers a lawyer

Herbert Pocket a relative of Miss Havisham; Pip's friend in London; son of Pip's teacher

Startop Pip's friend and house-mate

Bentley Drummle Pip's house-mate

Molly Mr Jaggers' housekeeper

Matthew Pocket Pip's teacher in London; Miss Havisham's cousin

Biddy teacher and friend to Pip

Joe Gargery the husband of Pip's older sister; a blacksmith

Mrs Joe Pip's older sister

Two convicts

Magwitch the convict Pip helped to escape

he was much stronger than Startop and me. We were both annoyed, and Startop and I found ourselves talking boastfully as well. Our conversation became a competition to show who had the best skills.

Mr Jaggers seemed to enjoy our talk as a form of entertainment. But I didn't enjoy it at all. I don't know why I said some of the things I did, but being among these people seemed to make me behave that way.

Just then, a woman of about forty entered the room. She was tall and thin, with pale eyes and long hair, and she gave Mr Jagers an anxious look as she put more food on the table. She seemed to be worried that Mr Jagers would say something bad about the food. He introduced her as Molly, his housekeeper.

‘Now, if you gentlemen want to see some real strength, show them your wrists, Molly!’ Mr Jagers continued.

She pulled up her sleeves and showed them to us. One of her wrists had terrible scars on it; it must have been cut badly in the past.

‘I have never met a man or a woman with stronger hands than Molly,’ Mr Jagers said. ‘They are remarkable! Don’t you just think so?’

We all took turns to look at her arms. Then, Mr Jagers thought that Molly was getting too much attention, so he told her to leave the room again.

‘At half-past nine, gentlemen,’ said Mr Jagers, ‘we need to finish. Please make good use of your time here.’

Until that time, Drummle continued to boast about things he had done, which Mr Jagers seemed to encourage. However, when Drummle left the house with Startop, Drummle realised that he no longer had an enthusiastic audience for his boasting, and the two started to argue.

Before leaving, I told Mr Jagers that I did not like Drummle at all. He advised me to keep away from him and then he said good night.

Fortunately, however, Drummle finished his education with Mr Matthew Pocket soon afterwards and returned home, to my great relief.

A few weeks later, a letter arrived from Biddy. She wrote:

Dear Mr Pip,

I am writing to you at the request of Mr Joe Gargery to let you know that he is going to be in London and would be very glad to see you. He will arrive at nine o’clock tomorrow morning and hopes that this will be a good time for you. I am sure that you will be happy to see him because you always had a good heart.

Your poor sister is much the same as when you left. We talk about you every day and think about what you are saying and doing.

Yours sincerely,

Biddy

I wished that I could pay Joe not to come. He was my friend, but I was ashamed of him now. He wanted to visit me at Barnard’s Inn, where I still had lodgings with Herbert. It was lucky, I thought, that he was not visiting me at my tutor’s home in Hammersmith. I didn’t want to introduce him to everyone there.

Early one morning, Joe arrived at my lodgings. He would not sit down. He looked very uncomfortable and he remained standing. He held on to his hat nervously. He seemed anxious not to do or say the wrong thing, but I was annoyed. If only he would not call me ‘Sir’ so often!

We ate breakfast with Herbert, who tried to help Joe to feel comfortable. But Joe coughed too much, sat too far away from the table, and dropped food everywhere. It was only when Herbert left for work, and we were alone, that I found out why he had come.

‘Miss Havisham wishes to see you, Sir,’ Joe said. ‘And she wants you to know that Estella has come home.’

6 Lesson 5

I hoped that Joe could not see how I felt.

‘Pip, my dear friend,’ he said, affectionately. ‘I wish you well!’

Then he left. A few minutes later, I was sorry that I had been so unfriendly to Joe. I hurried outside, hoping to call him back, but it was too late. I could not see him anywhere.

I decided to go home the following day. Although I thought of staying with Joe, I told myself that a room would not be ready for me at the blacksmith’s.

I told myself that it would be better for Joe if I stayed at a hotel instead, so I found one near Miss Havisham’s house.

As I was waiting to leave London on the coach, I saw two convicts standing nearby. They wore leg-irons and handcuffs; their guard had a gun. I recognised one of the convicts immediately. It was the man who had given me a shiny new coin at the village inn a long time ago. I hoped that he would not recognise me. After all, I was older now, and dressed like a gentleman!

When the coach arrived, the two convicts and their guard climbed up, sitting just behind me. I tried not to look at them, but I could not avoid their conversation.

‘When I first went to prison,’ I heard the first convict saying. ‘I was only inside for a few months. When I was told that I could leave, another convict, Magwitch, asked me to help him. He wanted me to find a boy who had helped him, years before, when he had escaped and was hiding on the marshes. Magwitch didn’t know me then, but he gave me a shiny new coin to give to that boy, if I ever found him. And I did!’

‘So the convict I gave the food and file to, all those years ago, is called Magwitch!’ I thought.

‘Huh!’ said the second convict. ‘Magwitch trusted you then, did he?’

‘Yes, he did,’ the first convict replied. ‘But he didn’t know me very well.’

‘Magwitch got a life sentence for that escape, you know!’ the guard said.

Memories came back to haunt me, and I was scared. I got off the coach as soon as I could, and walked the rest of the way. It was late when I arrived at the hotel. I was feeling very tired, but I didn’t sleep very well that night.

Before you read

Read the description of Mr Jaggers from this part of the story.

Mr Jaggers lived in a large, gloomy building, not far from his office. We all sat down at a big table. There was plenty for everyone to eat and drink, but Mr Jaggers kept everything at his side, and served us himself.

2 Are these sentences true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false sentences in your notebook.

- 1 Mr Jaggers hadn't met Bentley Drummle before the dinner at his house.
- 2 Molly the housekeeper boasts about how strong her hands are.
- 3 Pip receives a letter from Bidley with news about his sister.
- 4 Pip is glad that Joe is going to visit him at the Pockets' house in Hammersmith.

Speaking

3 Work in pairs. Discuss the question.

What does this part of the story tell you about Pip's new life and how he has changed?

Literature

4 In this part of the story, the writer uses but between two clauses to show a contrast between two facts or feelings. For example:

- There was plenty for everyone to eat and drink, but Mr Jaggers kept everything at his side, and served us himself.
- I was feeling very tired, but I didn't sleep very well that night.

Read this part of the story again and find at least three more examples of this sentence structure.

5 What are the effects of using these contrasts? Choose the adjective which describes how the examples make the reader feel or add your own ideas.

- a surprised b disappointed c impressed

Writing

6 Imagine that you were at the dinner with Mr Jaggers. Write a diary entry of around 200 words. Include the following:

- a brief summary of what happened
- what you thought of Mr Jaggers
- what you thought of the behaviour of the other boys at the dinner

Look at the photo. Discuss the questions in pairs.

- Does it ever take you longer to complete your schoolwork because you get distracted?
- What stops you from concentrating on your schoolwork?

Reading

1 Read the article about procrastination and answer the questions.

- 1 Why do scientists believe that we procrastinate?
- 2 Which two solutions to avoid procrastinating does the writer suggest?

2 Read the article again and match the missing sentences (1–3) to the correct places in the text.

- 1 For example, give yourself little rewards after working for a short period of time, like checking messages after finishing a task.
- 2 Whereas the future self is focused on achieving long-term goals.
- 3 Unfortunately, procrastinating often has a negative impact on your mental health.

Vocabulary

3 Complete the sentences with the words and phrases from the article.

- 1 People usually experience when they have too much work to do.
- 2 Since I stopped procrastinating, my ability to finish my homework has
- 3 If you miss school, you should borrow the notes so you can with the rest of the class.
- 4 If your goals are, it is that you will not achieve them.
- 5 There are courses you can take to get better at but you also need to be organised.
- 6 How much have you made with your project? Do you think you'll finish it this week?

Speaking

4 Work in pairs. Tell your partner when you procrastinate and why. Make suggestions that could help.

Procrastination? Blame your brain!

Have you ever tried to get something done, but found that you don't make much progress? Perhaps you do ten minutes of work, then start doing something else, like reading text messages.

Starting one task then stopping to do something else or not starting the task in the first place is called procrastination. Everybody does it. A You may put yourself under a lot of pressure to catch up with the other students in your class or you might have set an unrealistic goal to get something done in a certain time. This can cause stress.

What is going on in the brain which makes us avoid doing something, even though we know we should do it? Scientists suggest we imagine that there are two parts of our brain: our present self and our future self. The present self wants to feel good right now and see the benefits of the work you're doing immediately. B It's inevitable that the two selves come into conflict. If the present self wins, you usually find yourself procrastinating.

How can you deal with these two different selves so you can keep up efficiency levels and improve your time management skills? One suggestion is that you try to please your present self.

C Alternatively, you could try to focus on the benefits that reaching your long term goals will bring you. Try imagining how good it would feel to achieve them and holding on to that feeling.

Before you start

Discuss the questions in pairs.

- Have there been changes at your school since you started there?
- What were they and why were they made? If there haven't been any changes, what changes do you think would help to improve your school? Why?

Listening

1.46 1 Listen to the results of a school survey and look at the graphs A and B. Number the graphs in the order that the speaker talks about them.

1.47 2 Listen again. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)?

- The school recently made two changes to the way students practise English when they aren't at school.
- The school was interested in finding out what types of technology students use to practise English.
- More than half the students enjoyed using the digital workbooks more than paper workbooks.
- 10% of students thought that the digital and paper workbooks were equally good.
- An aim of the survey was to find out how often students took part in a virtual meeting to practise their English outside of the classroom.
- Many students had technical problems when they tried to join the virtual meetings.

3 Write a title for each graph.

- A

B

Speaking

4 Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- How do you think students at your school would react to the same changes? Which workbook would most students prefer? How much time do you think students would spend in virtual meetings?
- What other ways could students use technology to increase their efficiency when learning English?

Language

5 Choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

- I think it's a mistake to stop young people from using / to use mobile phones to do their homework.
- To concentrate on your schoolwork you have to stop to listen / listening to music.

- I think Yasser has to / should watch some videos in English because it would help improve his spoken English.
- We always try to find / finding different ways of learning and practising English to make it more interesting.

R2 Lesson 3

Before you start

Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.

- What problems do your parents or grandparents have when they talk to people online or send and read messages on their phones?
- Can you help them? What do you do?

Listening

1.48 1 Listen to three people talking about problems with technology. Do they have any of the problems that you talked about? Discuss your answers in pairs.

1.49 2 Listen again. Complete the descriptions of the three speakers' problems.

- 1 Hend's problem is that the other people in the can't her.
- 2 Engy's problem is that nothing happens when she clicks on the to the virtual meeting in the meeting
- 3 Bassem's problem is that he can't the he's just written.

3 Match the solutions the speakers use to solve the problems (a–c) with the three problems (1–3) from Exercise 2.

- a installing the software you need
- b turning the internet back on again
- c unmuting the microphone

Speaking

4 Work in pairs. Brainstorm ideas for things the speakers could do so they don't have these problems again.

Write a text message to each speaker to explain what they can do next time to avoid having the same problem.

Dear 11-year-old Ahmed, 🗑️ 📄 ✉️

I know you're finding life tough at the moment. You're experiencing stress at school and you're working hard with your sports training. You're finding it harder at your new school because the schoolwork is a lot more difficult than it was at your old school. You have more homework so it is harder to find time to practise swimming and running. How about telling your teachers about the problems you're having and asking for help?

Try to remember that life is actually quite easy at the moment compared to how it will be later, even though you might not believe me about that. When you're my age, you'll be really good at time management. You'll be able to balance your schoolwork and your sport practice. I know you want to be like Ahmed Elgendy one day. Don't worry - you'll achieve amazing things.

Enjoy the free time that you have now! Don't forget to spend time doing things that improve your well-being, like talking to family. Play football with your friends at the weekend!

You're going to be just fine, but remember to ask for help when you need it and enjoy the free time that you have so you don't end up feeling exhausted and burnt out.

See you in 9 years,
20-year-old Ahmed

Reading

2 Match the people with the sentences.

- | | |
|--------------------------|---|
| 1 Pip | a Comes to help the family after Mrs Joe is hurt. |
| 2 Mrs Joe | b Talks about how he was asked to find a boy and give him a shiny coin. |
| 3 Biddy | c Suffers a serious injury and can no longer speak or walk. |
| 4 Mr Jaggers | d Feels differently about the people around him after getting new of his expectations. |
| 5 Herbert Pocket | e Talks about what happened to Mrs Havisham when she was younger. |
| 6 A convict in the coach | f Gives Pip money, but a lot of people are afraid of this person. |

3 Choose the correct answer.

- 1 Who does Pip suspect of hurting Mrs Joe?
 - a Mr Wopsle
 - b Orlick
- 2 What does Pip say that Miss Havisham gave him every year on his birthday?
 - a A large amount of money
 - b A coin
- 3 What is the condition on which Pip will receive a fortune in the future?
 - a That he doesn't ask who his benefactor is
 - b That he marries Estella
- 4 In chapter 5, who becomes Pip's teacher in London?
 - a Matthew Pocket
 - b Mr Jaggers
- 5 According to Herbert, who wanted to steal money from Miss Havisham when she was younger?
 - a Mr Jaggers, her lawyer

 - b That he received a life sentence

Speaking

4 Work in pairs. Read the quotations and discuss the questions.

- 1 "One day, I said to her. 'Biddy, I want to become a fine gentleman.' 'But don't you think you are happier as you are, Pip?' she asked, surprised. 'No, Biddy,' I explained. 'I will never be happy unless I can lead a different life to the one I live now.'"

Do you think that Pip wants to live a different life because he wants to be like the rich people he has met or does he really believe he'll only be happy if he changes his life?

- 2 "On the morning of the wedding, when everything was ready and the guests were expected, there was some bad news. Miss Havisham's fiancé had left her! She received the news at twenty to nine in the morning, while she was getting dressed. Ever since that time, more than twenty-five years ago, neither Miss Havisham, nor her house, had changed at all. Even the clocks in the house had been stopped."

What do you think about what happened to Miss Havisham? What do you think of her reaction to what happened?

- 3 "Early one morning, Joe arrived at my lodgings. He would not sit down. He looked very uncomfortable and he remained standing. He held onto his hat nervously. He seemed anxious not to do or say the wrong thing, but I was annoyed. If only he would not call me 'Sir' so often!"

How has the relationship between Pip and Joe changed? How does each of them feel about each other now?

Writing

- 5 Imagine that you are a newspaper reporter. Choose two of the quotations above. Write a clear and easy to understand summary of what happened. Include the most important events and the reasons why they happened. Write about 200 words.

Language Review

Past simple, past continuous and present perfect

Uses of the past simple:

- actions which started and finished in the past, e.g.
She lived in New York for three months only.
She didn't live in Paris.
My uncle returned from Algeria in 2010.
Did you visit the New Administrative Capital Museum a week ago?*
- a sequence of actions or events, e.g.
She finished her degree, then moved back to Egypt.
- repeated actions and habits in the past, e.g.
Heba wrote lots of novels during her thirties.
Karim didn't like going swimming when he was little.
Did you often paint pictures at primary school?*

Uses of the past continuous:

- to speak about an action that was in progress at a particular time in the past:
I was doing my homework at 9 pm yesterday.
- an action that was already in progress when another action took place, e.g.
Amira was studying in Cairo when she met her husband.
When/While I was walking to school, I saw a terrible accident.
- two actions in progress in the past at the same time, e.g.
While I was listening to the lecture, I was making notes.

Note:

Use during, not while before a noun:

I met two of my old friends during the party.

Uses of the present perfect:

- actions that have results in the present, e.g.
He is happy that he has scored a goal in the match.
- actions that started in the past and still continue, e.g.
I've started French classes. (and I'm still going to them).*
We've done a lot of work today. (and we're still working).*
- experiences (often with ever and never), e.g.
Have you ever interviewed a famous person?*
I've never been on a plane.*
- actions which haven't happened (often with still or yet), e.g.
They haven't developed a treatment yet.
Salma still hasn't won a professional match.
- periods of time with since or for, e.g.
She's played football since she was five/since her childhood.
I have lived abroad for 5 years
It's years since we last met! We haven't met for years!

Note : since three o'clock/ for two hours.

UNIT

Past perfect

Past perfect simple

Uses of the past perfect simple:

- for actions or events which happened at an earlier time than another event in the past
- We often use it with adverbs and time expressions such as after, before, once, when, until, already, etc.
I'd finished all my homework, so I decided to play tennis.
When the journalist arrived to do the interview, the player had already left.
Once I'd read the book, I understood what she had achieved.
We didn't hear about the earthquake until we had read the newspaper.
I had no sooner remembered his phone number, than I decided to contact him.
Had Hatim arrived before the match started?
My father was angry because I hadn't followed his advice.

Note: Use infinitive + ing after before and after if there is no subject after them:

Before going home, I had bought some bread.

Past perfect continuous

	had (not) been	-ing form
I	'd been	practising a lot.
She	hadn't been	listening carefully.

She had been waiting for a long time when I arrived.
Had you been watching TV when that stranger knocked on the door?
Had you been waiting for a long time when I arrived?

Uses of the past perfect continuous:

- to emphasise that the activity had been continuing for some time before another action in the past.
Compare:
I studied before I went to bed.
I'd been studying for two hours before I went to bed.
- to talk about how long something had been happening:
She'd been studying for four hours when the computer broke down.

Note:

Don't use the past perfect continuous when you use sense verbs or say how many times you did/reported the action:

I had sent ten emails before I left the office.
They had known each other for ten years before they became partners!

UNIT 3

Future tenses

Present perfect for future use

In clauses with after, once and when we normally use the present simple to talk about the future, e.g. When I finish my studies I'll go and live abroad. Sometimes, however, we use the present perfect.

Once I've done the research, I'll write the report.

After she's finished her degree, she'll get a job as a lawyer.

The airport will open again when they've moved the plane.

Common mistakes

When I# get there, I'll let you know. (When I've got there, I'll let you know.)

I'll keep researching until I# discover a cure. (I'll keep researching until I've discovered a cure.)

Talking about the future

- Use the future simple (will or won't + infinitive) for: predictions with no evidence, quick decisions, offer, request and future facts.

In ten years' time, the world won't be very different.

Will you finish the article by the end of the day?

We'll see more and more robots in shops in the next few years.

It's hot. I'll turn on the fan.

Don't worry; I'll help you clean up this mess.

- Use the future continuous (will or won't + be -ing form) for: events that will be happening at a certain time in the future.

This time next year, I'll be living in Spain.

Will you be studying this evening?

I won't be going to that school next week; I'm on sick leave.

- Use the future perfect (will / won't + have + past participle) for: actions that will or won't be completed before a specific time in the future.

Before the end of this century, they'll have found life on other planets.

Will they have found a cure by 2040?

I won't have finished typing the report by the time you get here.

UNIT 4

Modal verbs, making suggestions

Modal verbs

Modal verbs are used for degrees of possibility, ability and permission. They are also used for requests, suggestions and advice.

- can / can't + infinitive without to is used to talk about possibility, present ability and permission:
We can't see the stars very clearly tonight. (possibility)
I can usually cope with difficult situations. (present ability)
You can talk to the teachers in ten minutes. (permission)
- could/couldn't + infinitive without to is used to talk about possibility and past ability.
When I was six, I could ride a bike, but I couldn't swim. (past ability)
- have to / don't have to is used to say that something is necessary/not necessary:
Students have to do their school work and take exams. (necessary)
You don't have to read every page in the book. (not necessary)
- might to is used to show that we think there's a small chance that something will happen, but it's still possible:
I might visit you next week; I haven't decided yet.
- should / shouldn't + infinitive without to is used to say that it is or isn't a good idea to do something, for example when giving advice:
You should spend more time on self-care.
You shouldn't hesitate to ask for help.

Making Suggestions

Giving advice about the future:

- How / What about + verb-ing?
How about going to bed earlier?*
What about doing your homework with a friend?*
- Have you considered/thought about + verb-ing?
Have you considered making a study plan?*
Have you thought about asking to take the exam again?*
- Why don't you + infinitive without to?
Why don't you try a new sport?*
- You should + infinitive without to
You should spend more time relaxing in the evening.

Use should/ought to have + past participle to express regret (for doing or not doing an action in the past.)

You shouldn't/oughtn't to have wasted your time playing on your cell phone. Now your grades are quite low.

Language Review

UNIT 5

Phrasal verbs, verb patterns

Phrasal verbs

Phrasal verbs are verbs which consist of a verb followed by one or two prepositions. The combination of the verb and preposition(s) in a phrasal verb creates a new meaning which is different than the meaning of the verb and preposition(s) on their own.

Separable phrasal verbs

- The verb and preposition(s) in some phrasal verbs are always separated by a noun and these are called separable phrasal verbs. The noun comes in between the verb and the preposition:

turn up: Can you turn the sound up? I can't hear it.

Inseparable phrasal verbs

- The verb and preposition(s) in some phrasal verbs are never separated by a noun and these are called inseparable phrasal verbs. The noun always comes after the phrasal verb:

look into: Let's look into other ways of having a virtual meeting.

catch up: I need to catch up with my homework this evening.

- In some phrasal verbs, the verb and preposition(s) can be either separated by a noun or not but the meaning is the same:

turn off: Can you turn your camera off? OR Can you turn off your camera?

- But with some phrasal verbs the meaning is different when the verb and preposition(s) are separated by a noun from when they aren't separated by a noun:

pick up:

I can still pick up my little sister. (to physically move someone or something upwards)

We're going to pick my aunt up from the airport tomorrow. (to meet someone somewhere and then take them with you to another place.)

Verb patterns with gerund and infinitive

When two verbs are used together, the second verb is either in the gerund form (or verb-ing) or the infinitive form (to + present participle).

Verbs that are always followed by the infinitive, e.g. decide, encourage, need, seem, try, want, arrange, agree, hope, expect, plan, offer, learn.

We decided to work on the project together.

The book seems to be back in the library now.

Verbs that are always followed by the gerund, e.g. avoid, enjoy, finish, miss, recommend, admit, deny, dislike, practise, risk, consider, suggest

You should avoid looking at your phone in bed.

I enjoy watching films in English.

Verbs that can be followed by the gerund or infinitive:

Some verbs can be followed by either a gerund or an infinitive+to and the meaning stays the same, e.g. continue, hate, like, start:

We will continue looking for the photos until we find them.

We will continue to look for the photos until we find them.

Language Review

- Some verbs can be followed by either a gerund or an infinitive but the meaning changes according to the verb form which is used, for example, stop, remember, forget, regret and try.

When I run, I need to stop to take a break every 15 minutes.

(to stop doing an activity so you can do another activity)

Let's stop thinking of ideas now and start making a plan. (to stop doing an activity)

Please remember to bring your digital camera tomorrow. (Don't forget to bring it.)

I remember meeting this man last year at the wedding reception. (I saw this man last year and now I remember that action.)

I regret wasting all my money; now I have no money to buy this T-shirt. (I'm sorry because I have wasted all my money.)

We regret to inform you that you have not been accepted for this job. (We are sorry to tell you this.)

Try taking this medicine for your headache. It's very good.* (Try something as an experiment to see if it works.)

I'm trying to learn Chinese, but it's very difficult. (Try to + infinitive means that something is difficult, but you make an effort to do it.)

UNIT 6

Have/get something done, causative verbs

Get something done

Uses of get something done:

- You use the structure get/have + object + done to say that someone will complete a particular task:

I always get my housework done in the afternoon.

- Use the past simple form of get/have to talk about completing a particular task in the past:

I got my project work done last weekend.

- Use will get/have + object + done to talk about completing a particular task in the future:

I will get the book report done tomorrow.

Causative verbs

Use of make (someone) infinitive without to:

- to say that someone forces someone (else) to do something:

Our teacher made us read the book again.

Use of let (someone) infinitive without to:

- to say that someone can do something because someone (else) has given them permission to do it:

The teacher sometimes lets us do an easy exercise for homework.

Use of allow (someone) infinitive "to":

- to say that someone can do something because someone (else) has given them permission to do it:

My parents allow me to stay up later at the weekend.

Use of stop (someone) from verb-ing:

- to say that someone / a situation makes it possible for someone (else) to continue doing something:

The very hot weather sometimes stops us from going outside.

Lesson 3

Reading

A Millions to be spent on project that will make our traffic worse!

Car drivers are angry about plans to open a new bus lane from the city centre. The plan, which will cost $200 million, will stop all cars using Yellow Road, one of the most important roads into the city. "Traffic in the city is already terrible," says businesswoman Mrs Joan Bates. "If they close Yellow Road, it will be even worse." Another business person who uses South Road regularly, Mr Jason Shelley, says, "Why are they planning to close roads? With so many cars in the city, they need to build new ones. No one wants to take buses because they are too slow."

B New route to serve university

There are plans for a new bus lane from the city centre to the university. The $200-million project will mean closing Yellow Road to cars, but will make the journey by bus 30 minutes faster. The organisers believe the project will help attract students to the university and that the electric buses will also reduce pollution. The bus lane will also be used by bikes and taxis. The project is part of a long-term plan to persuade people to use public transport rather than driving, to help reduce traffic and air pollution.

Tarek loves a football team called The Greens. He writes reports on their matches, online, but the reports do not give a 1 balanced point of view. He always puts The Greens' report at the top of the page when they win, but not when they lose! This is bias by 2 He always puts a 3 on his stories, too. For example, when The Greens lose, it is because they did not have their best players. However, he does not report the fact that the other team did not have their best players when The Greens win! This is bias by 4 Nevertheless, Tarek's reports are not 5: he does not want to 6 you and the reports tell you what really happened in the match. After all, he cannot change the result!

Writing

3 You read the report about a plan for a new hotel. It will be on your favourite beach. Write a report about the plan in your notebook. Put a negative spin on the report.

Exciting plan for hotel

A new, modern hotel is planned for White Beach. There will be rooms for 200 people and most will look out over the beautiful beach. The project should give work to many local people and bring more tourists to a beach that few people know about. They will also open a new road to the hotel, to replace the old one which is difficult to drive down.

| 6 to conclude | f to give a reason for something |

Reading

2 Put the paragraphs of this essay about guidebooks in the correct order.

We still need guidebooks because we cannot rely on the opinion of people online.

- a Lastly, we need to remember that guidebook writers are usually experts. You can trust them for accurate information and a balanced point of view. They also know who is using their books, so if the book is intended to be for young people, they will recommend places that young people will like.
- b Secondly, who are the people writing the reviews? It is difficult to know this information. If they are 50-year-old Europeans, will they have the same opinion as you? It is very hard to know if you are going to like the same places that they like.
- c With today's social media, it is possible to find online reviews of everything from a local park or café to a famous restaurant or museum. Before you book a holiday, you can read what other people think of a hotel or car hire company and what they recommend you do when you get there. Although this means you can get information very easily, in my view, this is not as useful information as you can get from a guidebook.
- d To conclude, online reviews are useful, but it's important to remember that they are just people's opinions. If you want to know what experts think, personally I think you should buy a guidebook.
- e To begin with, we need to ask ourselves why people write reviews online. Whilst it is sometimes because people like writing their opinions, at other times they have a reason for writing it. Perhaps they know the owners of the café, or perhaps they are the owners of the café! That is why they give it a good review.

3 Read the article again and answer the questions in your notebook.

- Which two opinions are there in the introduction? You can get online reviews easily... and quickly. However, the information from a..... guidebook is more trustful and more accurate.
- Which three reasons are given to support the writer's opinion?
- What solution or action is suggested in the conclusion?
- Do you agree with the argument? Why?

4 Write a persuasive essay in your notebook.

People should share the news that matters most to them in their communities rather than relying on what local news organisations think they should be interested in.

From the graph, it can be 1 seen that there is a 2 difference between people's opinions when asked the question in the graph. The 3 number of people who agreed were in India, where the 4 of people (80%) thought things would be better if women had more important jobs in government and business. Perhaps the most 5 thing about the figures is that 6 70% of people in the less developed countries, such as South Africa and Turkey, agreed with the question. 7, in some of the more developed countries such as Sweden and the USA, 8 than 60% of the people agreed, 9 in South Korea, 10 half the number of people disagreed. It is 11 interesting to 12 that in Japan, only 43% agreed. That may 13 the fact that Japan is a very traditional society. In 14, we can see that in most countries, people believe that things would be better if women had more important jobs in business or government.

- Some cinemas have seats that move to
- The technology to 'feel' films using smell, rain and wind probably

Writing

4 Which form of technology is most innovative and useful today? Why? Write an essay of about 200 words supporting your view.

Technology in the cinema

When you watch a good film, it is easy to forget where you are. Technology, however, is making the film experience even more real.

In the 1970s, a company called IMAX took a different approach. Their films were shown on very large, tall screens. Special speakers were put behind the screen, which helped to make the sound better and louder. In addition, the films were made using a special process which made the pictures look much more 'real'.

The problem with these types of films was the cost. They had to build special square cinemas, because people needed to watch the film in seats which all faced the screen. You also needed special cameras and couldn't make films of more than an hour long. So these films were nearly all educational, often about nature. One of the most popular was about climbing Mount Everest and when you watched it, you really felt you were surrounded by snowy mountains.

Since 2000, however, similar technology has allowed traditional films to be made in the same way. These are mass-produced and shown in traditional cinemas. As a result, many modern films sound great. Many are in 3D, so that the pictures look real and not flat. Some cinemas even have seats that move while you watch the film to immerse you even more into the experience. Other cinemas have even experimented with allowing you to 'feel' the film using smell, rain and wind. However, the cost of this will probably mean this technology won't be in most cinemas.

- 4 Within the next hundred years, we will have found / will be finding a way to use water for fuel.

Possible future uses of AI

Experts all agree that we will see more artificial intelligence (AI) in the future, but how will this affect our lives?

Factories already use AI to build cars and machines. Work that used to be done by factory workers is now done by computers. In the next few decades, computers will also do some work that is now done by office workers and shop assistants. That means many shops and businesses won't need to close: they will be open for 24 hours.

When you use the internet, AI quickly knows what you are interested in and sends you advertisements to sell you things. In the future, AI will know enough about you to be able to tell factories to make things just for you: the things won't need to be mass-produced.

Many people think that self-driving cars will have replaced traditional cars within the next few decades. We will all be calling self-driving cars to take us where we want to go, just like we call a taxi today.

Soon, AI will also be helping us to learn new skills. It will help people produce amazing art or music. AI will also help us to communicate in any language.

Mobile phones have changed the way we live in just a few years. In the near future, our lives will have changed again thanks to AI.

4 When do you think we will have done the following? Answer using the phrases in the box.

in the next decade/hundred years never one day soon within the next year or two

Reading

2 Put the paragraphs of this essay in the correct order.

The advantages and disadvantages to evolving technology

- a On the other hand, new technology is very bad for the environment. We all want to buy the latest phone, television or computer game, but that often means throwing away the old ones. You can recycle some parts of old equipment, but a lot of it is never used again. Who wants an old phone that does not connect to the internet?
- b On the one hand, this makes things easier for all of us. It is not very expensive to buy televisions that are almost as good as cinema screens. Mobile phones mean that you can be connected to the internet anywhere, so you can always find out information or know where you are. Planes and cars are safer and businesses work better.
- c On the whole, it is good that technology changes. We all want to have things that can improve our everyday lives. On balance, however, I think that we have to find a way to use new technology on old equipment. It is terrible that we have to throw away good equipment just because it does not use the latest technology. If we could build phones, TVs and computers that could last for decades, we could have a cleaner, greener world.
- d Technology is always changing. Every few years, you can buy televisions that have larger screens or better pictures. Mobile phones can do more and more things. On a bigger scale, computers in businesses, at airports and in almost every organisation become more and more powerful. We now depend on everything becoming better, bigger and faster.

Read the text and answer the questions.

Few women had become pharaohs of ancient Egypt before Hatshepsut, who is one of the most important females in Egyptian history. She was pharaoh from around 1479 BCE to 1458 BCE, making her one of the longest ruling females. During her 21 years of rule, she improved trade with other countries, which had stopped for many years during a war.

Pictures from the walls of ancient temples show Hatshepsut's ships trading with a country called Punt (now part of East Africa), from where her ships brought back gold, valuable stones and animal skins. They also brought back trees, which were planted when they returned to Egypt. This is believed to be the first time foreign trees were grown in a different country. The journey to Punt was probably the first of other trading trips, which included visits to Byblos (now in Lebanon) and Sinai.

Money from this trade helped Hatshepsut to build many amazing buildings and bring many years of peace and wealth to Egypt. The many buildings that Hatshepsut had built were usually larger and more impressive than buildings of the past. Her most famous buildings include the temples at Beni Hasan and at Deir el-Bahri, which some people call one of the wonders of the ancient world. But she also helped to repair other older monuments that had been damaged and started a period of artistic creativity.

Hatshepsut had many statues made of herself and you can find them in many of the world's greatest museums today. Many of the statues that were made at this time were in the Thutmoside style (named after her father Thutmose I), which people today consider as the typical ancient Egyptian style.

The mummy of Hatshepsut and lots of information about her can be found at the National Museum of Egyptian Civilization.

Studying can be stressful.

Here are four tips to make life easier.

Tip 1: Divide the things you need to do into four categories. These are: (1) urgent and important (2) important but not urgent (3) not important but urgent (4) not important and not urgent. Using this system, you will quickly be able to see what you have to do now and what can wait.

Tip 2: When studying for a long time, you should know when to take a rest. This will help you to avoid burnout and continue studying. Use a clock with an alarm. After every twenty-five minutes, take a five-minute break and stand up and stretch.

Tip 3: You should do exercise on a regular basis. Exercise will produce endorphins, which are chemicals that help to reduce stress. If the exercise is outside, you will also benefit from some fresh air.

Tip 4: You should not eat unhealthily when you are studying. A salad is quick to prepare and fruit is a better snack than chocolate. You should also avoid having too much caffeine. Water is much healthier.

Language

1 Choose the correct words.

- 1 Why don't you use/to use a diary to help you plan your work?
- 2 You couldn't have to do/done any more than you did. That was your best.
- 3 Have you thought about doing/do more exercise?
- 4 What about starting/start with the most important things first?
- 5 She looks very tired. I think she should has/have gone to bed earlier last night.
- 6 You could study/studying together and help each other.

Lesson 3

Listening

1 Listen and choose the correct message of the interview.

- 1 Other people have a big impact on how positive you feel.
- 2 If you do not say 'thank you' to others you will feel sad.
- 3 Positive thinking starts with how you think and behave.

2 Listen again and complete the sentences.

- 1 The name of George Mitchell's book is Positive Thinking is Easy
- 2 The book sold copies in one month.
- 3 George says it is important to be for all the things we have.
- 4 In one study, one group wrote about things they were grateful for and the other group wrote about the things that produced in them.
- 5 The group who thought about all the good things in their lives were happier after just weeks.
- 6 A study in demonstrated that being kind to others can have an impact on society.

Reading

3 Read a short extract from George Mitchell's book. Are these sentences true (T) or false (F)? Correct the false sentences.

- 1 George Mitchell says we should avoid worrying about things out of our control.
- 2 Nobody gets stressed about the changes in the weather.
- 3 Buying a good raincoat is one example of a positive solution to a problem.
- 4 Change is always a good thing for people.
- 5 How we perceive change is what causes stress.
- 6 Accepting change as normal will help us adapt to problems better.

One way to help you deal with life's problems is to focus only on the things you can change. There are many external factors which may influence how well you can cope with a particular problem. However, you should accept that there are some things you just do not have control over. It is not helpful to worry about these things. For example, when it rains do you get stressed about getting wet? Or do you buy a good raincoat to keep you warm and dry in bad weather? This is an example of how you can find a quick and simple solution to what others might see as a problem. This is also the first step to accepting change as something normal. It is a simple way to make sure you remain positive when you face life's difficulties.

Writing

4 Think about the changes you have experienced in your life. Write an essay of about 200 words describing the following points:

- How did you react when change happened?
- Could you have reacted differently?
- How could you react differently to changes in the future?

I think it's important to know what is happening in the world, whether it's good or bad.

a

For the last few weeks, I've been feeling like I can't cope with everything in my life. My friends are getting great marks at school and after school they meet up. But I don't have time to join them. On social media they always upload photos and videos of themselves having fun in the park and around town. I don't know how they find the time to do all these things and study too.

b

I like to know what is happening in the world and I have set up my phone to send me news alerts. Recently though, there have been so many problems happening around the world and it's making me feel stressed. It's having a big impact on my well-being. I often feel quite anxious and don't want to leave the house.

c

I have just started doing sport to calm down because recently I've been quite angry. We have just moved to a new city because of my dad's new job. I had to leave all my best friends, the athletics club I was in and all this happened during an important year at school. I want to study medicine, so I have to get good results in my exams. I often get angry about small things.

Studying on my Head by Hamid Shazly

I was never very good at concentrating, so my dad gave me a book called Study skills for you. I discovered lots of new ideas.

The first message in the book is that we all learn differently. So, the first thing I did was to learn how I best remember things. I tried making a summary of each unit of the school book, then a summary of the summary until I reduced the essential information into a small mind map. Highlighting important details in different colours helped me so much that I was even able to remember where on the map certain information was.

History was my worst subject. So, while I was making my notes, I played the same song in the background. When I went to sleep, I used to listen to the song again to make me think about the history notes. To avoid too much sitting on my desk, I got up every 20 minutes and walked around my room or went and studied in the park. I also recorded my notes on my phone and listened to them while walking in the park.

So, I guess you're wondering whether all these experiments worked? Well, it certainly helped me discover how I remember things best and it made revising a lot more interesting. This meant I spent more time doing it. When I got my final results, I was shocked but very happy to tell my dad that the highest mark I got was in History!

Hi there,

Adding a virtual background is great fun and quite easy to do when you know how. Let me explain.

First, look for the arrow next to the camera icon at the bottom of the screen. Click on that and then click on 'settings'. Another window will open, and you have to find the option on the left that says 'video and image backgrounds'. You have to click on that. If you don't have any images, you can add them by clicking on the plus sign which you can find on the right. Choose the image you want and then click on 'apply' and that's it!

I hope you have lots of fun but let me know if you have any questions.

Speak soon,
Basel

- What three bad habits do you have which affect your productivity?
 - How do they affect your efficiency when studying?
 - What three things could you do differently in the future to be more productive?
 - How would these three changes improve your productivity?

1. Don't procrastinate

There is one common error which 1 stops students from being productive: procrastination. Procrastination is when we delay doing something important. Students often look for an excuse to do other things, such as tidy their bedrooms, when they should be studying. Make a study plan and then 2 yourself follow it!

2. Don't study all night

Another bad habit that some students have is studying all night. (Sometimes this is because they have been procrastinating in all day!) Studying at night instead of sleeping does not 3 the body and brain to rest. It's important to switch off to study effectively the next day.

3. Put the phone away

Some teachers 4 students to keep their phone with them in class. But students shouldn't 5 themselves be distracted by their phones. Even better, hand it to the teacher at the beginning of the class – they will 6 you have it back at the end!

Writing

3 Analyse everything you do before, during and after you study. What could you do differently? How could you improve each area by 1%? Write about 200 words in your blog, reflecting your experience. Think about the following questions.

- What time of day are you most focused?
- What helps you sleep well?
- What food makes you feel your best?
- Where do you concentrate best?
- What is the most effective way to take a break from studying?

Think about how you could measure the impact of the changes. Then write about your experience. Include the following points.

- What areas you focused on
- What you discovered from the changes
- What impact the changes had

Huge benefits from small changes

The last time I blogged, I was worried about my exams. Well, you won't believe what happened!

A teacher told me about a coach called David Brailsford. He helped the British Olympic cycling team set 7 world records in the 2012 London Olympics. But how did this coach change their performance? Well, he analysed absolutely everything and improved each thing by 1%. He made lots of small changes to the cyclists' clothes, their diet and even their pillows! It had a very positive impact on their productivity.

So, I thought I'd do the same to help me study more effectively. I looked into the following areas:

- when I concentrate best
- for how long I can concentrate before I need a break
- where I concentrate best
- how I sleep best
- what food makes me feel my best

At first, I thought it was a waste of time but I kept going with it. I realised I was more mentally active in the morning and after 6 pm so that's when I studied the most difficult subjects. I also reduced the amount I ate for dinner and bought some ear plugs to avoid any outside noise. I now wake up feeling really refreshed and ready to go.

Did it work? Well, I was surprised by what a big difference this strategy made. In maths and history, my worst subjects, I got the second highest marks in the class and my grades in all my other subjects increased by 48% in just one month! Looking back I should have done this before! Making a 1% change in different things made a massive difference for me and I'm sure it'll help you too! So why not try it yourself?

Productivity: Tips from business leaders

The country's top business people have to make big decisions and juggle several priorities every day. We interviewed some of them to discover what tricks they use to increase their productivity.

The number one strategy that was mentioned by all of them was the ability to prioritise tasks according to what is most important. This involves a continuous process of deciding what is and isn't essential as you add new things to your 'to-do' list. The more you practise prioritising tasks, the easier it becomes and the more efficient it will make you.

Another time-consuming thing for business leaders is decision-making. Making decisions takes a lot of mental effort and this can lead to 'decision fatigue', which can cause burnout. It increases your productivity if you can save your mental energy for the bigger decisions by reducing the smaller ones.

Many of the most productive people realise how easy it is to get distracted. In order to stay focused, they keep a 'distraction list'. When a new thought or idea comes into their heads, they write it down and continue with what they were doing. When they have finished the task, they revisit the list.

The final trick from our interviewees is simple but highly effective. In order to raise your productivity levels, you should exercise your mind and your body. It has been suggested that physical activity can improve our levels of concentration and creativity. So, if you are trying to find a solution to something, identify the problem and then go for a walk or do some sport. You may discover the solution!

There are lots of strategies to choose from to increase your productivity. Our advice would be to experiment with different ones to find out what works best for you.

Archaeologists working at the ancient site of Thonis-Heracleion have made a remarkable new discovery. They have found baskets filled with fruit dating back to the fourth century BCE! Before the city disappeared under the sea in the second century BCE, hundreds of ships had been visiting Thonis-Heracleion every day and it was Egypt's largest port on the Mediterranean. The city had been forgotten until it was explored by a French archaeologist, Franck Goddio, in the year 2000 CE.

Although archaeologists had raised many large statues and metal objects from the sea at Thonis-Heracleion before this, Goddio said that he thought the discovery of the basket was incredible. This is because fruit does not usually last for very long at all. However, although metal and stone statues are more valuable, everyday objects such as a fruit basket can often teach archaeologists a lot more about people in history. For example, historians learned what the Romans ate after finding bread dating back to 79AD, when the volcano Vesuvius erupted and covered the town of Herculaneum in rocks and ash. Similarly, archaeologists learnt what people ate in Britain in around 2000 BCE after finding a spoon that had been buried with food on it.

The basket at Thonis-Heracleion was filled with grape seeds and the fruit of a doum palm tree. They probably survived because they had been kept in an underground room.

In the next ten years, a lot more of Thonis-Heracleion will have been discovered. In fact, Goddio claimed that only 3% of the site had been explored so far. Consequently, archaeologists will probably be finding many more inspiring objects in the future.

Read the following passages, then choose the correct option from A, B, C or D.

- A Due to the global pandemic, the Egyptian Ministry of ICT noted an almost 50% increase in internet consumption as workers were encouraged to work from home. Many saw this as a positive move and some companies have closed their offices as their employees continue to work from home. However, there are also disadvantages that need to be considered.

A significant advantage for the company is increased productivity. The home office ensures a higher level of efficiency as it is adapted perfectly to the employee. There are no distractions by workmates or background noise and they have their favourite food too! With less time needed to commute, they can spend more time with their families. This increases well-being which, in turn, can increase productivity.

Despite the many advantages, there are also some disadvantages. Many who worked from home claimed that they worked more hours than in the office. Furthermore, some complained that although they saved money on transport they had increased costs in water and electricity. Poor furniture or physical space is also another issue to take into account. However, the biggest problem has been the feeling of isolation and lack of personal contact with workmates. With 300 million workers globally suffering from mental health issues as a result of working from home, doctors are claiming mental health problems will be the next problem to affect the world.

- 23 The general idea of the text is that

B How would you feel if you spent many months without seeing your friends and family? Would you be happy to live in a very small space, with the same people for many weeks? These are the conditions that astronauts have to face, so scientists are looking into the best ways to help them with their mental health problems.

In 1982, a Russian astronaut called Valentin Lebedev had been travelling in space for seven months when he started to become more and more depressed. This was the first time that scientists realised that mental health could be a problem for astronauts, who need to carry out important and often dangerous tasks.

Many astronauts face problems because time is so different in space. For example, on the International Space Station (ISS), astronauts see the sun rise and set 16 times in one day. This makes it very hard for them to sleep. Spacecrafts also use blue light, which is the same light we use for computers and TV screens. Blue light also stops us from wanting to sleep, which is why you should not look at screens before you go to bed!

Until scientists have done research on more astronauts, we won't fully understand the effects of space travel on their mental health. However, scientists claim that mental health problems will be more likely when astronauts start to make journeys to planets such as Mars, which might take 18 months or more. As a result, people who want to become astronauts need special training on how to deal with stress.

The astronauts of the future will certainly have a lot more support than they did in the past. Already on the ISS, astronauts spend a lot of time taking exercise, relaxing, eating healthy food and talking to their families: all good ways to stay mentally healthy!

- 29 The main idea in the first paragraph is
- A different mental health problems

Read the following passages then choose the correct option from A, B, C or D.

- A Ever since human beings started creating new ways of doing things, there have been fears they would be replaced by technology. However, in the twenty-first century technology is helping us, not taking our place. There have been fears that Artificial Intelligence (AI) may replace teachers. However, it appears that teaching is a job which requires a great deal of emotional intelligence and creativity which AI has not mastered yet. Having said that, it is true that AI will become an essential tool for teachers for many of their day-to-day tasks.
- Some Learning Management Systems (LMS) use AI to make online teaching easier by reducing teacher's workload and helping them to be more productive, and therefore improving well-being. This company offers the possibility of adapting learning plans to individual students and creating course content based on student's needs. This will allow teachers and teaching organisations to offer much more effective learning experiences for online students of the future.
- In conclusion, AI will continue to offer help to teachers but will never replace them.

- 23 The general idea of the text is ...
- A that technology will continue to offer solutions for teachers and students.
 - B that artificial intelligence will allow teachers to have more free time.
 - C that jobs in the future are in danger as a result of artificial intelligence.

- B When people retire, they will probably have been working for 40 years or more. But how productive will they have been in that time? We have been studying productivity, and the results are very interesting.
- Working hours around the world vary, but people in Egypt work an average of 40 hours a week and no more than 48 hours a week, which is similar to most other countries. In the USA, however, many people working in technology and banking often work over 60 hours a week. This could be because phones and laptops mean that people can work even when they are not in the office.
- However, a study by Professor Pencavel, from Stanford University in the USA, concluded that these extra hours do not mean a person gets more things done. Professor Pencavel reported that a person's productivity declined very quickly after they had worked 50 hours a week. In fact, a person doing 70 hours a week did the same amount of work as a person doing 55 hours.
- There have been several studies into the effects of work on health. The economist, Nolan Pope, studied how the time of day affects productivity, and he found that people are naturally more productive at certain times of the day: in particular, before around 1pm. There have been many other studies into workplace stress, and these indicate that long work hours are linked to exhaustion, burnout and poor health.
- In conclusion, to aid our health, it is important that we work around the hours of the day when we are most productive and this should help make us happier.
